JAP PEACE OFFER

Kayoed at Tobruk—Blasted by several direct hits by British Royal Air Force fliers, the 9232-ton Italian cruiser San Giorgio burns furiously amidships in Tobruk harbor, where she served as a fortress with heavy anti-aircraft guns since she was first damaged in 1940. This raid occurred during the victorious advance of Britain's land forces on the Italian Libyan stronghold.

JAP PEACE FEELER GETS BRITISH 'NO'

LONDON, Feb. 19 (AP)—The government informed the House of Commons today it had received "a special message" from Japan offering to mediate in the war and also accusing the United States and Britain of "warlike preparations" in the Pacific ocean.

ALLIES HERE—Dropping their roles as enemies for the moment, an Italian prisoner and a British officer become allies to help carry an Italian casualty at Tobruk to an ambulance.

Richard Austen Butler, undersecretary for foreign affairs, said Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden received the message, couched in "courteous terms," and following the same general lines as the statement issued in Tokyo yesterday by Koh Ishii, government spokesman.

That Tokyo statement expressed Japan's readiness to "act as mediator or take whatever action is calculated to recover normal conditions, not only in greater East Asia, but anywhere in the world."

Authoritative London quarters said today Britain would not "entertain peace proposals until a complete victory has been gained."

4 REASONS FOR ALARM

Informed sources said the Japanese message was handed to Butler for transmission to Eden when Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese ambassador, visited the foreign office Monday to discuss Far Eastern tension.

It was understood the ambassador asked the reason for the alarm which he said had been shown in Britain and the United States last week concerning the Oriental situation and Butler was reported to have given him a four-point reply attributing the alarm to:

4—Rumors that plans for a southern push were found in a Japanese plane shot down in South China (presumably referring to the plane crash in which Admiral Mineo Osumi, member of the supreme war council was killed.)

U. S. AID SEEN HELPFUL

Meanwhile, authorities saw an improvement in the Far Eastern situation reflected by a friendlier tone in the Japanese press, government utterances in Tokyo and the fact that Japan has undertaken no offensive.

It was suggested this was due to the increasing realization Britain and the United States are prepared to take a firm stand in the Far East. Informed quarters had no doubt the Axis had been encouraging the Japanese to create a diversion, especially in the hope it would bolk speedy passage of the United States aid-to-Britain bill.

Japs' Peace Feeler Not Sent to U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP)—Sumner Welles, Undersecretary of State, said today the United States had received no communication from Japan along the lines of that which the British government announced it had received.

DICTATOR CHARGES HIT IN AID BILL DEBATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP)—Senator Connally (D.) of Texas, pleading for national unity in support of the Administration's British aid bill, told the Senate today that the democracies of the world "must all hang together or they shall hang separately."

The Texan opened the third day of Senate debate with the assertion that opponents of the bill had engaged in "specious" arguments with the charge that the so-called lease lend measure would make President Roosevelt a "'dictator."

Describing thhe European war as "this death struggle of democracy against ruthless tyranny," Connally said the United States could not afford to be indifferent to the fate of those nations fighting the Axis Powers.

STRESSES UNITY

"In foreign affairs," Conally declared, "America should face the world as a united people. In these high and important transactions we ought to prepare a solid front. America must play the part of America. It must not fail."

Citing Nazi statements about establishment of a new world order, Conally said it was his belief that the Axis powers hoped to dominate the world.

"This compact of aggression and conquest," he declared, "is an armed threat to the security of the United States. Great Britain is pouring out the blood, not alone of her soldiery, but of her civilian

HUB MAN HULL AIDE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP)—G. Howland Shaw, of Boston, a foreign service career man, was nominated by President Roosevelt today to be an assistant secretary of State.

Hitler-Gram Flood Of U. S. Jibes Sent At Nazis' Expense

It probably was quite entertaining to peek today into the lair of the Big Boy in Germany, because Adolph was being insulted by experts and they do say Hitler doesn't like being the Patsy.

All the other boys of the Third Reich were being insulted, too, of course, because today was the day for which the American wise cracker has long been waiting.

"Say—I'd like to meet that baby and tell him right in his teeth . . ."

Germany left itself wide open and the Nazis not only asked for it, but guaranteed payment for it, through a lad who described himself over the short wave radio from Berlin as "Jackie Goodsell."

In a rash moment he invited America to cable COLLECT what Americans want to hear from Germany.

HERE'S YOUR CHANCE

This was like a guy in a tall silk hat being foolhardy enough to walk by a group of lads anxious for a target at which to throw snowballs.

Only cursory interest was shown in the first Nazi request for collect communications Friday night. Comparatively few Americans listen regularly to Berlin broadcasts.

Last night the innocent "Jackie Goodsell" repeated his request, and the word, spreading slowly since Friday, got around faster.

Last night the deluge of cables began, at a minimum price of $2.19 for the Nazis to pay on each message.

Today, with the story being spread in all newspapers throughout the nation, the American enthusiasm soared, and in offices, bars, clubs, homes, shops and even on street corners the man-who-always-wanted-to was scribbling out his message.

Offices of the RCA Communications, Inc., in New York were swamped first, and then the thing spread over the nation.

Would-be-cable-senders received a set-back, however, in attempting to cable. They were held to the rule that the sender of a collect cable must have an account at the other end and, as in the case of long distance phone calls, the addressee's consent to accept the collect message must be obtained.

The first responses to the call for American suggestions could not have hurt the Nazis much, for "Jackie Goodsell's" appeal of last night for a response was very moving. He said, following a broadcast in English that criticized the United States:

HERMANN GOERING
Subject of Telegrams

"We want to hear form you. If you don't feel that you can afford to cable, then cable us collect. And here is our cable address once again. I shall spell it once more.

State Offers $2500 for Dowd Arrest

Reward of 2500 for information leading to hte arrest of John F. Dowd, former sheriff of Suffolk County, missing since November, 1939, when he fled following indictment, was offered today by the state on recommendation of Atty.-Gen. Robert T. Bushnell.

Gov. Saltonstall's approval to the Executive Council was followed by unanimous endorsement.

Eager to end the nation-wide search for the fugitive, the attorney-general wrote:

"I recommend the Governor and Council offer a reward of $2300 for information leading to the arrest of the defendant. This man is a former sheriff of Suffolk County, having resigned, with charges pending against him, in November, 1939.

"He has been a fugitive from justice since indictments were returned against him by the Suffolk County grand jury shortly thereafter.

"I believe it to be important to the administration of justice in Massachusetts that this man be apprehended and brought to tiral and that the proposed reward may be helpful in obtaining the desired results."

To the Council the Governor wrote:

"Attached hereto is a request of the Attorney General which I heartily recommend. We want to take every step possible to obtain justice and particularly in cases where public officials have violated their oaths of office."

"WE CANNOT SKATE IN JUNE," SAYS BANNER OF THREE FAIR STRIKERS

400 DEDHAM HIGH PUPILS START STRIKE

Half of Dedham High School's student enrollment went on strike today when approximately 400 of the boys and girls refused to answer the bell in a protest against failure to grant them a mid-winter vacation.

These 400 recalcitrants gathered outside the high school building, jeering and cat-calling at the other 400 "loyalists" who insisted on attending classes.

Following the ringing of the last bell, the "rebels" staged a noisy demonstration at the school, then marched on the office of the school superintendent, John Anthony.

Finding this place closed, however, the boys and girls continued their noisy march to Dedham sq. and in front of Town Hall they put on another demonstration until police arrived and good-naturedly herded them out of the square, so that motor traffic might flow.

STATING THEIR DEMAND

Then, having made no score so far, the students again formed and began a march designed to take in the homes of all school committee members.

Meanwhile, however, two of these members, Dr. Ray Spaulding and Miss Margaret E. Sullivan, were at the high school, where they witnessed the first demonstration and then went into conference with Principal Ralph A. Eaton.

The striking students carried various placards and signs, on which were such slogans as "We Want to Go Skating," "We Can't Skate in June," "We Are Being Gyped" and "We Want Our Vacation."

STAGE SIT STRIKE

With the signs they returned to the school after parading to the home of school board members, and in front of the school the students staged a sit-down strike on the cold, frozen ground.

Headmaster Eaton came out and, addressing the "rebels," told them they were taking the wrong attitude and using the wrong methods. Right now—he said—they could go to their classes and all would be forgiven.

But there wasn't a break in the strikers' ranks and the headmaster retired, after requesting them to leave the school grounds because their presence disturbed pupils inside.

IRENE DAYE
Singer Is Bride

Lawrence Girl Singer On Honeymoon

Irene Daye, erstwhile child wonder of Lawrence and now a night club warbler of considerable fame, was honeymooning today in Hollywood with her new husband, Edward Cornelius, trumpeter in Glen Gray's orchestra.

They were married in Las Vegas, Nev., after eloping by plane from Chicago Sunday, it was learned.

Irene, 21, blonde and good looking, met Cornelius in Hollywood two years ago while they were there with different bands, making pictures.

They had corresponded and whenever their engagements brought them near each other were together, until Sunday when they met again in Chicago and eloped.

Miss Daye is the featured singer with Gene Kruppa's band, with which she has been singing for the past two years.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Endyke of Fowler st., Lawrence. She is a graduate of Lawrence High School and was noted in that city as a child wonder-dancer and singer, appearing in many exhibitions.

Dog, Cat Meat Plus Linseed Oil Sold in Belgium

BRUSSELS, Belgium (Via Berlin) Feb. 19 (AP)—The sale of dogs and cats for food in the Brussels region has been reported by independent investigators, and the government food control bureau is investigating.

Meat from these animals has been reported prepared in various forms, one method being to grind and mix it with linseed oil. Some also has been canned.

Food control bureau agents have arrested a merchant accused of adulterating flour with gypsum.

Capital's Gusty Gale Rips Milady's Hosiery

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (INS)—Gone with the wind today were hundreds of pairs of milady's silk stockings.

Following a 40-mile-an-hour gale, many a Washington woman yesterday discovered to her dismay that her sheer hose were just one run after another.

Howard E. Shearer, research associate for the National Ass'n of Hosiery Manufacturers, assigned to the Bureau of Standards, examined a pair of the tattered hosiery under a microscope and reported that tiny dust and sand particles, apparently blown into the stockings by the wind, had cut the fibels.

He suggested that the particles may have come from sand left on the streets to prevent them from being slippery when it snows, but the street department said that no sand has been used for two weeks and insisted that the streets were clean.

A manager of a large hosiery firm with offices in the capital, said that undue strain from running to escape the cold or stooping to pick up lost hats was probably the real reason for the damage.

"Something caused it," said Shearer. "I've never heard of stocking damage on such a wide scale."

Whatever the cause Hubby still had to dig down into his jeans as the ill-wind blew plenty of business for the hosiery stores.

Hubby Found College Girl's Chief Aim

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 19 (AP)—The American college girl of today is more serious than her sister of 10 years ago, likes a nice, thick volume of sociology, but wants a husband most of all.

The young lady, as pictured by members of the National Association of Deans of Women at their 25th annual convention, is also a frank-eyed young woman who won't take anything for granted.

"No proposition is so self-evident that they won't tear it to pieces to see how it is put together," said Miss Mary A. Johnson, assistant dean at the University of Maryland, in telling how the students used to concentrate on the classics but now stress human problems.

As to matrimony, Miss Johnson pointed out:

"The girls freely admit they want marriage. They search less for men of means and more for those with mutual interests." An increasing number of girls, she reported, are "even getting married before graduation" and don't hesitate to find jobs to help get a home established.

"The old career bubble has exploded," observed Miss Anastasia Doyle, dean of residence at Stanford University.

Southern belles, however, said Miss Nora Power, dean of women at Louisiana State University, still want careers as well as husbands and "see no contradiction in the two aims."

Concentration on wedding bells is nothing new to the co-eds at the University of Cincinnati, commented Mrs. John Engle, dean of women there. The biggest change, she said, was that stress on personal training has given the girls more poise and self-assurance.

LESS COLLEGIATE

Miss Hilda Threlkeld, dean of women at the University of Louisville, observed the modern miss is "less collegiate as we used to understand that term," and declared that an example of young women's realism was that they "came through last election with their feet on the ground, and were not too much taken in by campaign speeches."

Most of the deans agreed that "fear of the future" was causing the increasing seriousness of study and the stress on marriage.

POLICE TAGGING DRIVE IRKS RED CROSS WORKERS

Already handicapped by the inroads of grippe on the women volunteers assigned to work on wartime activities, officials of the Metropolitan Chapter of the American Red Cross are up in arms over car-tagging by police in the neighborhood of the main training center at the corner of Commonwealth ave. and Gloucester st., Back Bay.

Despite pleas that many of the workers are from out of town and assume that in this urgent production of humanitarian supplies that their cars will not be tagged in this residential neighborhood, officials said today they have met with an uncompromising "I'll give them an hour" from the officer detailed to the tagging.

Tagging not only slows up the work, officials and the women themselves said, but in some cases leads for duty to stay at home rather women whow ould otherwise report than go through the inconvenience of reporting after they have been tagged.

They are giving their time freely to the Red Cross in work approved by the President and by the military in Washington, the women say, and think" Working at 17 Gloucester St." Red Cross stickers in their cars should exempt them from the "petty annoyance" of tags.

"This is a neighborhood of town houses, most of which are boarded up for the winter, so we are not interfering with the owners by parking," one workers said. "In addition, it is not a shopping neighborhood and therefore parking between nine and later and four certainly does not interfere with traffic."

To meet the flat refusal of the police to cease tagging, the workers are adopting strategy to skip tags. Pairs of workers agree on places to park their cars. Then, on the hour, every hour, they switch parking places. This plan has worked—so far—but is a cause of annoyance and slows up work when the women have to don coats over their white uniforms ad troop around the streets.

THREE WOMEN DIE IN FIRE

SAN FANCISCO, Feb. 19 (AP)—Three women burned to death yesterday in a fire at the Girl's Recreation center, Assistant Fire Marshal Ed Dullea reported. At least six other persons including three firemen, were injured.

Thieves Get 300 Dynamite Sticks

An alarm was broadcast to all Boston police divisions and to neighboring cities and towns today as a workman discovered 175 pounds of dynamite had been stolen from a Roslindale storehouse.

More than 300 sticks of the explosive were carried away during the night from a shed of the W. J. Barry Co. in Cummins highway.

Jack Raso, employed by the stone crushing concern, found the door of the shed jimmied when he arrived for work.

Grave fear was expressed, since it was obvious that this was no youngsters' prank. The weight of the stolen explosive gave police reason to believe an automobile carried the dynamite away.

Percussion caps stored with the explosive were untouched.

Uphill Road For Volunteer

WATERBURY, Ct., Feb. 19 (AP)—If perseverance makes the soldier, 24-year-old Paul L. Valente ought to go far.

When he volunteered for the Army last summer, Valente learned he needed his birth certificate in West Rutland, Vt., cheerfully hiked the 500 miles to get it, went eventually to a Panama air base, but was discharged because he needed an operation after only 23 days' service.

Now, Valente's draft number was way down the list and he could have claimed exemption because of his physical condition, but he had the operation instead and today, with 60 others, he was off to an induction center.

Troop Ship Lands 1200 Soldiers Here

Brown-skinned after five weeks' secret maneuvers in the Caribbean, more than 1200 soldiers of the First Division, U. S. Army, landed at the frigid, wind-swept Army Base pier in South Boston today.

MISSING—18-year-old Mary Giacobbe of East Third st., South Boston, has been missing since last Sunday. She is 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 120 pounds, with medium complexion. Mary's mother begs her to return home quickly.

Their transport, the converted Munson cruise liner Pan American now the Hunter Liggett, was the first troopship to land at Boston with returning soldiers since World War days.

Singing and joking about their recent days on the warm white sands of the tropics, the soldiers leaned against the biting wind, weighted down as they were with full war packs, rifles, tin helmets, gas masks, duffle bags—each man's load totalling 140 pounds—and with ukeleles and souvenirs of the trip.

CHILL IN WELCOME

The Hunter Liggett was eight hours behind schedule, having fought a stiff gale all the way north since one day out of San Juan. She left San Juan Friday, Feb. 14, at 11 p. m.

Colder than the soldiers was the reception committee, some of whom had been shifting from one foot to another at the base since 4 a. m.

Included in the reception committee were Maj.-Gen. Karl Truesdell, commander of the Sixth Corps Area (that includes Ft. Devens and Camp Edwards), Col. C. S. Ryder, Col. John T. Sallee of the Army Transport Service, in charge of debarkation; Capt. E. T. Connelly and other high ranking officers.

Newspaper reporters, cameramen, newsreel cameramen and radiomen—but mighty few civilians—lined the pier.

The soldiers were from Headquarters and Service Companies of the 18th Infantry, First Signal Corps and the First Quartermaster Battalion—all of which went to Fort Devens—and Battery E of the 68th Coast Artillery, which went to Edwards.

QUICK GET AWAY

About 200 military police officers directed the loading of the men into 200-odd trucks that had been lined. The dock had been completely cleared of soldiers two hours after the Hunter Liggett cast her first line ashore at 8:30 a. m.

An ambulance took Pvt. John P. Coffey of the 18th Infantry — stricken with chronic appendicitis at sea—to Fort Devens Hospital.

The returning men were in high spirits over their cruise and still full of the delights of southern waters; the officers were proud and still impressed by the way in which the maneuvers had gone.

Landing operations had been conducted in co-operation with the Navy and Marines, under the watchful eyes of general staff officers.

ONE GIRL ABOARD

There was one girl abroad among the 1200 men—Lieut. Olympia Kozik of Holyoke, an attractive blonde nurse. Her duties were light, apart from the salutory effect of a good-looking blonde on seasick cases.

At San Juan, 40 men had to be treated for sea urchin spines they picked up while swimming, there was one case of pneumonia, and one man dislocated his neck while jumping from a Liggett landing boat in the surf.

Skipper of the Hunter Liggett was Capt. Allen Erickson; on board were Brig.-Gen. J. Garesh Ord and Lieut. Col. John P. Creehans, commanding officer of troops.

Long overdue is the transport Chateau Thierry, that left San Juan six hours before the Hunter Liggett with 1000 soldiers from the same maneuvers. The Chateau Thierry is now expected at noon tomorrow, army officers said.

Battleship Washington Ready May 15

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP)—The Navy announced today its new 35,000-ton battleship Washington would be placed in commission May 15, six and one-half months ahead of schedule.

Undersecretary James V. Forrestal also said that orders had been issued to Capt. Howard H. J. Benson to take command of the new vessel at that time.

After the commissioning there will be a period of trial runs, then the Washington probably will join the fleet in September, 1941. The keel was laid at the Philadelphia Navy Yard June 19, 1938, and the original date of commissioning as fixed in the contracts was Dec. 1, 1941.

The 35,000-ton battleship carries nine 16-inch guns and a heavy battery of anti-aircraft and secondary broadside guns, has a designed speed of 27 knots, and is equipped to carry three airplanes.

The Washington will be the second battleship commissioned by the United States since December 1, 1923.

Women Foes of Aid Bill Pray

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP)—Kneeling on the Capitol plaza and praying aloud, a group of women who said they represented various mothers' organizations demonstrated anew today against the pending British aid bill.

The group, whose leaders included Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling, author of the book, "The Red Network," twice previously had been broken up by Capitol police when they sought to demonstrate outside the Senate chamber.

Today, they marched back and forth in front of the Senate wing of the Capitol, waving American flags. A Capitol police sergeant advised them that picketing the Capitol was forbidden.

M. I. T. BRIDE WINS DIVORCE FROM SAILOR

When her husband came sailing home from the sea, he frequently sailed right into her—with his fist—Mrs. Elizabeth M. Moutal, attractive 23-year-old special student at M. I. T., testified today in Middlesex Probate Court.

Mrs. Moutal won a divorce from Jack Moutal, a seaman aboard freighters but now of parts unknown, charging him with cruel and abusive treatment during brief and infrequent times when he was home from trips.

She was constantly afraid of these returns home, said the attractive brunette from Hancock st., Cambridge, because he was "apt to become violent."

One such arrival home, she said, was on March 10 of last year. She did not expect him so soon and she was entertaining some friends, including students of Tech, where she is studying architecture.

The party broke up soon after his arrival, the wife testified, and then he became abusive, first pushing her across the room, then beating her, knocking her down and kicking her in the face and stomach.

In 1936, the witness said, he had struck her so hard that several of her teeth were loosened, and on Sept. 18, 1939, when she asked him why he was late for a dinner party he was giving, he punched her and blackened one eye.

Mrs. Marie Claremont of Morton st., Cambridge, was present at that time, she said, in corroborating Mrs. Moutal's testimony, and said she had seen Moutal abusive to his wife on several other occasions.

State May Take Over Baby Farm Children

Infants reclaimed from "baby farms" may be taken over permanently as state wards by the child guardianship division, it was warned today as the drive against these illegal establishments gained momentum throughout Massachusetts.

While it is rather the aim of the division to get these helpless children back with their parents or relatives, said Miss Mary Joyce, director of child guardianship, this state action may be necessary in certain cases.

In 1940, she disclosed, at least a dozen infants had to be taken by the state and provided with foster homes because no satisfactory arrangement could be made with a parent or parents.

NEW LAWS URGED

At the same time, Miss Joyce stressed the urgent need of passing proposed legislation which would require licensing of homes where children over two years of age, but under 14, may now be kept in any number, without legal supervision.

Such a measure is being studied by the legislative committee on public welfare and Public Welfare Commr. Arthur G. Rotch is hopeful it will be reported favorably.

In the "baby farm" drive, a Dorchester woman is due to face Dorchester court. It is charged that, with four children of her own to care for, she kept eight infants in wooden boxes and broken-down carriages in a single barely-heated laundry shed.

MANY IN STATE'S CUSTODY

These, with a number of other infants taken out of illegal boarding places are now in custody of the state. In all there are 25 babies awaiting disposition, officials said.

Miss Joyce said that every attempt would be made to have the blood relatives of these babies provide satisfactory care, pending the state's temporary guardianship, but if such care could not be provided, there was only the alternative of making them state wards.

The director also stressed that the situation is by no means to be cleaned up by this one drive, since, she estimated, there are probably scores of women who are violating the licensing requirement without knowing it.

In some cases where unsatisfactory conditions have been uncovered there will not be prosecution because of this ignorance of the law, she said.

On the other hand, Miss Joyce declared, there are undoubtedly as many or more pitiable instances of neglect in cases where children are over two—outside the infant protection law.

For these cases, she pointed out, it was necessary to seek the new law. This measure was proposed by Rep. Leslie B. Cutler of Needham.

It was considered unlikely that there would be prosecution of the Somerville woman in whose home six babies were found, all suffering from whooping cough. This was considered a case of ignorance of the law, Miss Joyce said.

BABY NEAR DEATH

Five, it was discovered, had chicken pox and one of them in addition had pneumonia. The latter baby was given scant hope for recovery today at City Hospital, to which it immediately was removed.

Already one woman has faced court on a charge she kept infants without a license.

She was Mrs. Mary Watson of Glenwood st., Hyde Park, who entered no plea when arraigned in West Roxbury court. She obtained a continuance until Feb. 25 after she told Judge Daniel W. Casey she wished to obtain counsel.

According to Miss Mary McCann, a state inspector, who issued complaints against Mrs. Watson, the accused once had a license but had failed to renew it. She was not charged with neglect.

Armed Forces of U.S. Now Total 1,000,000

By GRIFFING BANCROFT, JR.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—For the first time in her peacetime history th United States has more than 1,000,000 men actually under arms, enlistment officers disclosed today

A total of 1,033,116 officers and men is divided as follows: Army, 778,000; Navy, 207,510; Marine Corps, 47,606.

The summary of the three branches followed an announcement by the Army that its total alone would reach 1,002,000 by March 1, just 12 days from now.

At the same time, officials of all three services declared that housing facilities and supplies of material and clothing were keeping pace with the expanding forces.

The Army, naturally, is the fastest growing. It has risen from a mere 260,949 officers and men last summer, and defense leaders said the goal of 1,400,000 in the land forces by June 30 will be easily reached.

The Army at present consists of 56,000 officers and 722,000 men. Of the men, nearly 100,000 are draftees and about 200,000 are federalized National Guardsmen.

While the guard divisions have their own quarters, the draftees so far have been filtered into existing guard and Regular Army units.

In addition to calling up more draftees and the remainder of the guard, the Army has announced it will call up another 30,000 reserve ofifcers in the next few months.

The Navy, according to latest figures, is composed of 173,356 enlisted men, 18,803 reserves on active duty, 10,850 regular officers and 4501 reserve officers on active duty.

The Marine Corps comprises 38,615 enlisted men, 6636 reserves on active duty, 1618 regular officers and 737 reserve officers on active duty.

$100,000 FIRE PROBED IN PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 19—Fire and police officials today were questioning employes and probing among the ruins to determine cause of a $100,000 fire which destroyed the entire northeast wing of the New Haven's depot here.

The three-alarm blaze, accompanied by three hot air explosions sent out a heat so intense that the paint of fire trucks nearly 100 feet away was blistered, while police had to call on a detail of soldiers from nearby Sixth Corps headquarters to handle the huge crowds.

14 VEHICLES BURNED

Eight express trucks and six parked autos were destroyed, but thousands of dollars in express shipments were rescued by workers from the safes in the express offices.

Two firemen were slightly injured, and seven narrowly escaped being crushed to death as the north wall buckled and collapsed outward.

The fire was believed to have started on the fourth floor and was discovered by New Haven clerks at work on the two top floors of the building.

CLERKS FIGHT BLAZE

Finding the fourth floor filled with heavy yellow smoke, the clerks tried unsuccessfully to fight the fire with a hand extinguisher. By the time firemen arrived, the top floor was a seething mass of flames.

Although extremely handicapped by the pushing throngs and a high wind and bitter cold, the firemen succeeded in their efforts to save the main station and the adjacent post building by laying down a water curtain.

Woman Saves Mother in Fire

Her daughter's heroism in beating out flames with her bare hands saved 48-year-old Mrs. Mary E. Snyder from death today, but the West Roxbury woman's name is on the danger list at Forest Hills Hospital.

The daughter, Mrs. Mary Raftery, 23, was badly burned about the hands and arms and is in an adjoining bed at the hospital. Mrs. Snyder suffered burns over the entire body.

The mother was starting a fire in the kitchen stove at her home in Fawndale rd., West Roxbury, when flames caught her bathrobe. In a moment she was a living torch. Her screams aroused the daughter, who was in a bedroom.

Producers' Council To Hear Metal Expert

Uses of modern metals and alloys for architectural and building purposes and for food service equipment will be described by F. A. Sansom, International Nickel Co. representative from New York, at a Producers' Council Club meeting in University Club tomorrow night.

Applications of the now-familiar Monel, which led to its introduction into the home, will be described by Mr. Sansom. He will accompany his talk with a sound film showing how the metal is mined, smelted and refined. Three hundred architects and engineers will hear the talk, according to C. H. Boldridge, president of the club.

Monkey in His Bed Held No Grounds For Divorce

SAN JOSE, Cal., Feb. 19 (AP)—Carl Beckman, 58-year-old Agnew State Hospital employe, sought a divorce because his wife permitted a pet monkey to sleep in their bed.

"You didn't have to tolerate the monkey in bed," Judge Charles W. Davidson remarked, "and could have forcibly ejected him.

"As a matter of fact, I have had several divorce cases in which husbands ejected their wives from bed with considerably less energy than that required to dispose of a healthy, frisky monkey."

He denied Beckman's plea and awarded a decree and alimony to Mrs. Mary Alice Beckman on her cross-complaint, charging cruelty.

Six Camp Hostesses Picked, Seek Nurses

An emergency appeal for military camp nurses and a tightening of restrictions at Fort Devens were among highlights along the military front in Massachusetts today.

Out of a total of 3000 applicants, six hostesses have been selected so far for appointment to Ft. Devens and Camp Edwards, Maj.-Gen. James A. Woodruff, commanding the First Corps Area, announced today.

Senior Hostess at Edwards will be Miss Katherine Kendall, Bay View ave., East Greenwich, R. I. Senior Hostess at Camp Devens will be Mrs. Marion Tirrell-Wyman of Massachusetts ave., Cambridge.

Mrs. Alma de Coen of Everett st., Cambridge, and Miss Dorothy Stevens of Minot st., Neponset, were chosen to be junior hostesses at Camp Edwards, and Mrs. Ruth Emmons Turner of Stevens st., Lowell, and Miss Hanna T. Meegan of Summer st., Stoneham, were selected as juniors at Fort Devens.

Gen. Woodruff said that careful consideration had been given to all applications and that formal appointment of other hostesses would be made within a few days.

The fourth call inductions meanwhile continued at Boston, Worcester and Springfield with the rejection rate dropping even lower than the previous record low of 10 per cent.

While Fort Devens, among other things, ordered military police to arrest soldiers begging rides, the Boston Red Cross launched a recruiting drive to provide 150 nurses for Camp Edwards, home of the YD, by March 1.

Chairman Ethel V. Inglis of the local chapter, said the equivalent of a national emergency has developed with the expected inflow of 1,400,000 men into the Army within the year.

COMMISSION NURSES

She appealed to unmarried nurses, between 21 and 40, who are in good health and American citizens. The nurses will be commissioned as second lieutenants, and paid $70 monthly with full board and maintenance, including laundry and uniforms, she said.

The hitch-hiking ban, which created considerable surprise at Ft. Devens, is believed to be the result of fear that accidents will develop by sudden stopping of cars by friendly drivers seeking to give soldiers a lift.

Another order was directed at the men who give the commands—officers. Disclosing they are as human as any of the men under them, the order stated they must sign in and out of the fort and not leave without permission.

Fort Devens authorities said, too, that old passes will be revoked and new ones issued to persons with regular business at the fort. This is the result of failure of many construction workers to turn in their temporary passes following sudden curtailment of the workers in recent months.

RELATIONS EXEMPT

Officials emphasized the order does not affect relatives and friends visiting soldiers there.

Meanwhile, officials indicated the case of Trainee Joseph Doherty, 31, of Charlestown, was a forgotten issue after he changed his mind and took the induction oath just before leaving the Columbus ave. induction station.

The draftee had steadfastly refused to take the oath up to the last minute on the grounds that it would bind him to "fight for England." After officials pointed out the United States is not at war and indicated action would be taken against him, Doherty capitulated.

Of the latest group examined at Boston, only 22 men, or 8.3 per cent, were rejected, Army physicians announced.

DEVENS TO BUILD RUNWAYS FOR BOMBERS

Complete modernization of the airport at Ft. Devens, including the construction of three 4000-foot hard-surface runways capable of sustaining the weight of the heaviest army bombers, started today on the receipt of pdesidential approval and a $514,000 allotment for a national defense project there by State WPA Administrator Denis W. Delaney.

Work will begin immediately, Delaney said.

The grant covers clearing, grading, filling, draining, surfacing, installation of lighting facilities, road construction and the building of "warming up" strips for planes. The work will be under the supervision of the commanding officer at Devens.

The airport now is limited by 2800-foot runways which are not constructed to carry the weight of heavier type planes.

CCC to Enroll 21,000 Young Men

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP)—The Civilian Conservation Corps announced today it would enroll 21,000 young men by Feb. 28 to fill junior vacancies.

This, it said, was an intermediate enrollment of the type which would be held four times a year. Officials said other enrollments would be held May 20-31, Aug. 20-31 and Nov. 20-31. Enrollees must be young men between 17 and 23½ years.

City Budget Battle Off to Late Start

A mere bagatelle of $44,586,173—the city budget for 1941—apparently is small reason for city councilors to turn up at the unreasonable hour of 10:30 a. m.

Judging by the appearance of the council chamber, and counting noses on the committee on appropriations at that hour, the three weeks' tedious session on Mayor Tobin's figures, scheduled to being today, will last longer than three weeks.

At 10:30 Chairman Joseph J. Gottlieb of Dorchester was on hand. So were Councilors James J. Goode of Hyde Park and John C. Wickes of Dorchester.

At 11:05 they sat down. At 11:13 Chairman Gottlieb summoned Councilor James S. Coffey and asked him to serve as a member pro tem. to get things started.

The committee then was ready to start on the line-up of city officials who had been cooling their heels for 43 minutes. This group was headed by William T. Doyle, chief clerk in the Mayor's office, and Louis J. Brems, director of public celebrations.

Still missing at 11:13 were Councilors Michael J. Ward of Allston, reported vacationing in California; Joseph Russo of the West End, Theodore F. Lyons of West Roxbury and Maurice H. Sullivan of Brighton.

Last year the committee handled appropriations that totalled $46,939,818.

Fire on Salem Bus Tangles Sumner Tube

Motor trouble in a Salem-bound Eastern Mass. Rwy. bus, and resultant clouds of black smoke caused a ten-minute tieup at the East Boston end of Sumner vehicular tunnel today, but the operator was able to put out the fire with a hand extinguisher before fire apparatus arrived. Four passengers were transferred to another bus and the crippled machine was towed away.

RECOVERS — Smoke poisoning fails to daunt Lillian Lorraine, Broadway star of 25 years ago. She's well on route to recovery after her chaise lounge caught fire from a cigarette she was smoking when she fell asleep. Lillian's now in Bellevue Hospital, New York.

FARESE, WIFE PLAN NEW HONEYMOON

Having kissed and made up after he escaped jail on charges of abducting a 17-year-old high schol girl, City Councilor Alfred Farese of Everett and his forgiving wife today were happily planning a second honeymoon.

"We will forget the past. It is a closed chapter in our lives," said Mrs. Farese after she and her husband had met in their Montrose st., Everett, home, embraced and kissed each other. "I hope everybody else will forget what happened."

SENTENCE SUSPENDED

Farese was found guilty in court, several hours earlier, of abducting Edith E. Anderson, 17-year-old East Boston school girl three weeks ago. He was given a suspended sentence of three months in the house of correction. The girl, found guilty of being a runaway, was placed on probation for six months.

Atty. Guy Taschetta, counsel for Farese, and the latter's brother, Atty. John Farese of Ashland, Miss., arranged the meeting which resulted in bringing the couple together. Mrs. Farese said:

"My husband drove 1600 miles with this girl and I am informed there was no wrong doing and everything was strictly honorable. So I decided to take him back."

FARESE EXPLAINS

Farese explained his attitude toward the girl by saying that, when he mentioned to his wife that he was going to Washington to take the examination for a G-man, she threatened to divorce him. She reminded him that she was soon to become a mother.

"I told my wife I took the girl to Mississipi to get her a job through my brother, John, and if my wife divorced me I intended to marry her," he said.

Judge Charles J. Brown, before reaching his finding in the case, talked with Dr. Mabel Hiscox, Boston woman physician, who testified the girl was unharmed.

Evans Heads Finance Co.

Appointment of C. R. Evans as manager of the Boston office of the Household Finance Corp., 80 Boylston st., was announced today by company officials.

He is a graduate of Haverford Township High School and studied accounting and business management at Drexel Institute in Philadelphia. Evans succeeds A. C. Chandler, who has been made manager of the Salem office.

C. R. Evans

With the Household Finance Corp. since 1935, Evans comes here from the Philadelphia office where he served as assistant manager. Previously he worked in the Newark, Jersey City, Binghamton and New York offices of the company.

In acknowledging his appointment Evans stressed the services offered by Household Finance, saying:

"We believe that Household Finance Corp. is performing a service to any community in which it operate and that not only borrowers but other people realize and appreciate this fact."

ROBBERS OF GIRL HUNTED

Officers today sought two youths who slipped up behind Miss Dorothy Fallon, 25, of Field st., Roxbury, held her arms and robbed her of her purse containing $1.50 as she walked along Columbus ave., near Coventry st., Roxbury.

JAPS MUST QUIT AXIS TO MAKE PEACE WITH U. S.

By KINGSBURY SMITH

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—Japan must withdraw from the Axis alliance if it wishes to improve its relations with the United States.

As long as Japan remains a member of the Axis alliance, the United States Government will refuse to consider any compromise arrangement with the Nippon empire concerning the Far Eastern situation.

Furthermore, the United States Government will oppose by whatever steps it deems necessary Japanese expansion in the Far East as long as Tokyo remains a member of the Axis.

This represents the American government's present policy in regard to Japan, International News Service learned today.

This policy is based on the conviction that Japan's presence in the Axis alliance constitutes a direct threat to the security of the United States.

FEAR U. S. ACTION

It also is based on the position that the United States is definitely committed to the support of Great Britain in the war to halt the extension of German power in Europe and throughout the world.

This government is convinced that if it were not for fear of what the United States would do, Japan would strike quickly at Singapore. Control of Singapore would give the Japanese Navy control of the Indian Ocean—and consequently threaten the back door to the Suez Canal and the Mediterranean.

Such a development, in the opinion of this government, would merely serve to strengthen Germany's position in the European conflict, and in world affairs generally.

BACK BRITISH

Therefore, the United States Government intends to do what it can to stop any Japanese move against British interests in the Far East. By protecting British interests, it feels that it is protecting American interests.

The extent to which this government is prepared to go in stopping Japan, and whether it is prepared to risk war in so doing, depends entirely upon developments.

The American government, moreover, feels that Japan and not the United States is responsible for the present unsatisfactory relations between the two countries.

Cupid Muffs One, Error Robs 1200 of Chance for Love

SEATTLE, Feb. 19 (AP)—Potential romance has snubbed 600 University of Washington men—and Asst. Dean of Men William H. Botzer says it was all a misunderstanding.

Botzer said he doubted if that many unattached, sociable males could be found on the campus, but he'd try. The response swamped the telephone exchange.

The Stephens agent thought the skeptical response was a rejection and wired:

"Sorry. We've made other plans."

Youth Skis To Face Draft

SAN ANDREAS, Cal., Feb. 19 (AP) — Because James Charles Johnson didn't want to be tardy in answering the draft call, he skied 24 miles through a mountain blizzard to get here, risking his life.

Johnson, 34, was a caretaker at Camp Tamarack, which is 24 miles "above" Camp Connell, and Camp Connell is "end of the line" on the Ebetts Pass highway at this season; automobiles can go no further.

Two weeks ago, the local draft board started trying to get word to Johnson that he was included in today's call. Mail doesn't go through at this season. Johnson's cabin hasn't a phone. Finally, through the fire observation service, a call was put through to Johnson's nearest neighbor—not very near. Eventually he got the word to Tamarack.

Australian War Casualties 969

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (AP)—A broadcast by the Australian radio, heard here today by CBS, said army headquarters at Sydney had listed Australian casualties overseas at 969, including 190 killed, 749 wounded, 20 missing and 10 held as prisoners of war.

JAPAN CALLS BRITISH MOVE AN ACT OF WAR

SHANGHAI, Feb. 19 (AP)—A Japanese military spokesman asserted today the landing of Australian troops at Singapore "may interfere with the successful outcome" of the Thailand-Indo-China peace conference and accused Britain of having taken "belligerent action."

Maj. Kunio Akiyama, official spokesman of Japanese expeditionary forces in China, declared arrival of the Australian troops "cannot be interpreted as a gesture contributing to peace in the Far East."

He expressed belief Britain is attempting to bring pressure upon Thailand "possibly to defeat" the peace negotiations in Tokyo.

Maj. Akiyama described these negotiations as an evidence of Japan's willingness, as announced yesterday by a spokesman for the cabinet information bureau, to act as mediator in East Asia, or anywhere in the world.

EARNEST EFFORTS

He said they were "one example of Japan's earnest effort to restore and maintain peace throughout the world," and added:

"Wherever a critical situation arises, Japan exerts her efforts at bringing about a satisfactory settlement of the problem by peaceful means.

"In view of the aforementioned fact," he declared, "the report of Australian troops in large numbers being landed at Singapore to be distributed throughout Malaya cannot be interpreted as a gesture contributing to peace in the Far East.

"On the contrary, the British action may interfere with the successful outcome of the peace negotiations now being held at Tokyo.

AIR OF SUSPICION

"Concentration of Australian forces on the Thailand-Malaya border is a British attempt to create an air of suspicion and distrust over the peace parley and is also, in application, pressure upon Thailand, which is cooperating with Japan in bringing about a new order in East Asia.

"Consequently, it seems evident that Britain, which has taken belligerent action in the south (Southeast Asia), does not wish to cooperate with Tokyo, which is striving to bring peace between Thailand and French Indo-China."

In Tokyo, unofficial Japanese observers interpreted the arrival of Australian troops at Singapore as another indication that Britain is attempting to create a crisis in the Far East, but official quarters declined comment pending fuller information.

"If only a few thousand troops were landed, it is not worth comment," the cabinet information bureau said. "However, a statement may be made, if any considerable force is sent there."—Editor's Note.

Vast Air Force, Aussies Give British Edge on Jap

SINGAPORE, Feb. 19 (AP)—The strength of Britain's Singapore base was reinforced today by thousands of Australians and by such great numbers of bombers and fighting planes that neutral observers believed the balance of air power in southeastern Asia has turned in Britain's favor.

The arrival of the Australians made the Malay peninsula a veritable powerhouse of military energy and increased expressions of official, press and public confidence that the empire now was ready to meet any threat of an extension of the war to the South Pacific.

Malaya today had the greatest manpower strength in its history.

The Australians came completely equipped to reinforce British, Indian and Malay troops guarding the great base. Malaya's volunteer and civil defense units also have been completely mobilized and are in training to support the regiments manning the defenses.

Chinese residents who form Malay's largest and most important racial minority are organizing to help in protecting the country. An air defense program is being vigorously pushed ahead in all ports and centers of population.

SAD-EYED TOTO SAILS FOR U. S. TO BECOME BRIDE OF GORILLA CASANOVA

HAVANA, Feb. 19 (INS)—Toto, the maiden gorilla with a look of alarm in her dark, immutable eyes, sailed sadly today from the scenes of her childhood to enter into the same vissicitudes and trials of adults everywhere.

She was upset with no father there to comfort her, no mother to whisper advice into her Simian ear.

Toto—to put it in language befitting a maiden gorilla—is going to get married.

She is "marrying well." With what there is available, she couldn't do better. She is to become the mate of Gargantua, the Romeo, the Casanova, the Hercules of the race of Gorillas.

With palpitating heart she left home in an air-conditioned cage. She will end up in Port Everglades, Fla. Her arrival will be an event.

Her owner, Mrs. Kenneth Hoyt, is en route to Miami by air to meet her. Gargantua's boss, John Ringling North, also is en route to Florida for the event.

The event not only will be as romantic as a marriage between two love-lorn gorillas could be romantic, it is also scientific.

Privately North and Mrs. Hoyt hope there will be children. That would be scientific because no baby gorillas have yet been born in captivity, it is reliably understoood.

Toto's keeper, one Jose Tomas, travelled in the cage with the bride-to-be on the steamship A. D. Parrott.

He said Toto was upset. Toto would take her hands and put them over and over again. "Glub-glub," over and over again. "Glub-glub," that shows she was nervous.

To be perfectly honest, Toto hasn't the slightest idea where she is going.

But when she meets Gargantua scientists as well as Toto and the public at large will know whether it's to be a love match or a battle royal.

That's What She Said

Seized Dutch Head Defies Quiz by Nazis

LONDON, Feb. 19 (INS)—Kidnaped by air through a Nazi ruse, 78-year-old ex-Premier Dirk Van De Geer of Holland has been locked in a Stuttgart prison because he would not reveal British secrets, a sensational story in the London Daily Mirror said today.

Branded a "traitor" by the London Dutch government-in-exile, the gray-haired old man with the bristling white moustache has turned out to be a hero who frustrated the Germans in the end, according to the bizarre account.

In a plot reminiscent of the American film "Foreign Correspondent," a carbon hit in Britain—the statesman was "snatched" from Lisbon while en route from England to the United States early this month.

De Geer, who was premier of the Netherlands when the German invasion came, was supposedly on his way to the Dutch East Indies by way of Portugal and the United States when, on Feb. 4, he suddenly turned off at Lisbon and headed home to Holland in a German plane.

THOUGHT HIM TRAITOR

The Dutch government regarded him as a traitor and deserter. But, according to the Daily Mirror, this is the story:

The German actual kidnaping plot began when De Geer received a report that the health of his wife, still in Holland was failing, and the Germans would not permit her to leave.

Tired and discouraged himself, and worried about his wife, the former premier received permission to leave for the Orient.

But when he reached the Portuguese capital, he chartered a Luft Hansa plane which was supposed to take him to Holland. However, the Mirror account said, De Geer was flown direct to Holland and confronted with demands for information about Britain and The Netherlands Indies.

Naturally, De Geer, who had been working closely with the Dutch government-in-exile in London and with British officials, was in possession of a great deal of important secret knowledge.

NAZIS MAKE MISTAKE

The Mirror said the Nazis presumably picked on him as the victim of their kidnap plot in the belief that he would prove too old to stand up against their threats.

"But they were mistaken," said the paper. "De Geer courageously refused to talk. Consequently he was flung into jail in Stuttgart."

A Dutch official spokesman in London commented:

"No matter of what De Geer may have been convicted, he could never play the traitor's part. I am sure he would refuse to be blackmailed into giving away our secrets. Threats of prison or even death would never open his mouth.

"It looks as though another Nazi trick has misfired."

When De Geer turned away from Lisbon, it was recalled, he promised to remain loyal to Holland and Queen Wilhelmina "until I die."

British Curb on South America

LONDON, Feb. 19 (AP)—The government announced today it was prohibiting export of goods from Britain to Brazil, Chile, Colombia and Peru except by license, effective March 6.

The announcement, by the Board of Trade, said the order was issued "in order the utmost possible benefit may be derived from United Kingdom exports and with a view to ensuring the volume of exports is kept within the means of payment."

NAZIS JAM YUGOSLAVIA IN PRESSURE ON GREECE

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Feb. 19 (AP)—Reports of vast German war supply movements across Yugoslavia and the drone of Nazi planes over Greece intensified pressure on Britain's embattled little Balkan ally today to decide whether to continue the fight in Albania, or talk peace on Italy's terms.

Long lines of sealed railway cars reliably reported carrying war material were said to have crossed the Yugoslav frontier from Germany, headed for Bulgaria from which a flanking attack could be aimed into Greece through Thrace and Macedonia.

Diplomatic sources said the Germans apparently were taking quick advantage of the new Turkish-Bulgarian nonaggression pact, heralded in some quarters as insuring Turkey in event of a Nazi thrust through Bulgaria, and of an agreement reportedly reached last week with Yugoslavia.

Ziga Sol, Croat peasant party member, said yesterday this agreement gave Germany the right to move war material through Yugoslavia and take a large share of Yugoslav agricultural production.

That Yugoslavia would maintain strictly a hands-off policy in any German move in Bulgaria was seen by some observers in reports from Sofia that Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic, who talked with Adolf Hitler last week, probably would go to the Bulgarian capital to draft a ieaf firmation of the Yugoslav-Bulgarian non-aggression agreement.

There was no official confirmation, meanwhile, of newspaper reports from Bucharest that King Boris of Bulgaria had gone to Germany, possibly to ask that his country be given an outlet to the Aegean sea through eastern Greece.

Nazis Claim Big Tanker Total Loss

BERLIN, Feb. 19 (AP)—German broadcasts declaring "the air over the Atlantic has been vibrating with SOS calls" from British vessels, reported today total loss of the England-bound former Netherlands tanker Tatia, 10,354 tons, is regarded as certain following the latest aerial foray against Britain's sea-borne commerce.

The attack on the tanker was said to have been made at noon yesterday by a long-range Nazi combat plane 425 miles west of Ireland. Three bombs struck the Tatia amidships and she lay motionless with a heavy list in a giant patch of oil," the Nazis reported.

A British combat plane attempting to enter German-occupied territory at dawn yesterday was forced down and its crew captured, the high command reported.

Attacks yesterday on a troop camp north of Portsmouth were described as "especially successful."

During an armed reconnaissance yesterday the German air force was reported to have attacked airbases at Honington. Elsewhere in England troop camps and railway lines also were attacked, and hits were scored on two trains, the Germans said.

7000 Nazi Pilots Lost Over Britain

LONDON, Feb. 19 (INS) — The German air force has lost 3101 planes and more than 7000 aviators since the raids against England began, it was authoritatively stated today.

Of the 7000 in personnel, less than 1000 German airmen are in internment camps, indicating the Nazis have only one chance in seven of surviving if shot down, it was said. This figure excludes an unknown number brought down by naval ships and merchantmen off the coasts.

British losses in and around Britain were 851 planes. A total of 427 pilots were saved, according to the spokesman.

2 Scotland Towns Bombed by Nazis

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Feb. 19 (AP) German bombers attacked two northeastern towns in Scotland today, and residents said the machine-gunned a schoolyard and bus.

Children in the yard and passengers of the bus already had scattered to safety. Bombs wrecked several homes and killed three persons. Others were injured.

Dictator Charge Hit In Aid Bill Debate

To help Britain, he said, the "lease-lend bill proposes to furnish supplies and munitions, but not men."

RAP DICTATOR CHARGE

Connally said the charge made by opponents of the measure that it would make President Roosevelt a "dictator" was "specious and mischevious." There is nothing in the measure, he said, that would give the President any authority over the lives or liberty of any American citizen.

"I submit," he added, "that the bill gives the President no power over the property of a single American citizen except indirectly through taxation which shall have been previously provided and enacted by the Congress of the United States.

"Whatever power is given to the President to procure arms and munitions or war supplies must be exercised in th normal, lgal way by purchases and by the payment of compensation, as is guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States and the laws enacted thereunder."

DEFENDS PRESIDENT

Connally said opponents had charged the British aid measure was a "war" bill under which the President might commit some act which would involve this country in war.

He called that charge "an attack upon the sincerity of the President and upon his oft-repeated intention to keep America out of war," and said "it implies that he is less patriotic than those who bring the charge."

"No President needs such a bill as this if he should desire to embroil us in war," Connally added. "Any President as sole commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, may at any time so employ either the Army or the Navy as to bring about an international situation which might provike war.

"The Constitution and laws of the United States will exercise their lofty duties with a view to the interest, the safety and the security of the United States and its people."

OUTLINES POWER

Connally reminded the Senate the bill contained these specific limitations on the President's authority:

"First—With the exception of $1,3000,000,000 of supplies out of appropriations already made, the President may not spend a dollar until after the Congress shall have authorized and appropriated for such expenditure.

"Second—He must find that the defense of the country to which aid may be extended is vital to the defense of the United States.

"Third—He must, before taking any action, consult with the chief of staff of the Army or the chief of naval operations of the Navy, or both.

"Fourth—His authority is limited to June 30, 1943, or it may be terminated at any prior date upon the passage by the Congress of a concurrent resolution.

"Fifth—The President must report to Congress at least once every three months respecting action taken under the bill."

Connally said he considered these restrictions "overwhelmingly refuted" the charge that the President was to be given unlimited powers under the bill.

Italians Claim British Repulsed

ROME, Feb. 19 (AP)—The Italian high command announced today the beleaguered Fascist garrison holding the desert oasis of Giarabub in eastern Libya had beaten off a violent new British attack.

In East Africa, the war bulletin said, British assaults on the Eritrean town of Cheren were repulsed by stubborn Italian resistance, and the British advance on the Kenya front likewise was checked with enormous British losses.

German warplanes were said to have bombed a British base in North Africa and attacked ships. (The Germans said the port was Bengasi.)

A large concentration of British mechanized equipment in Libya also was said to have been bombed by the Nazis with "excellent results."

British Capture Ethiopian Town

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 19 (AP)—The strategically important Ethiopian village of Njabara, about 150 miles northwest of Addis Ababa, has been captured by the British along "with many prisoners," general headquarters announced today.

The town, 140 miles inside Ethiopia, lies directly south of Lake Tana. Between Njabara and Addis Ababa, the capital, is Gojjam Province, where Ethiopian patriots, defeated by the Italians five years ago, are aiding the British with harassing movements against their Fascist conquerors.

The British communique said the "patriot situation" in the province "continues to develop satisfactorily." The Ethiopian natives were reported yesterday to have driven the Italians from several towns.

British Troops in Libya to Get Code Love Messages

LONDON, Feb. 19 (AP)—The British government announced a love-sending communications code plan today to keep soldiers in Libya pepped up at reduced rates.

"You may fear this stereotyped code," Postmaster-General W. S. Morrison told a luncheon, "but one should not at all.

"Here's one message: Kisses.' The next is 'Love and kisses.' The third is 'Fondest love and kisses.'

"Thus every degree of affection is provided for."

"Liberty when it begins to take root is a plant of rapid growth"

—George Washington

On Saturday, we celebrate the two hundred and eighth anniversary of George Washington's birth. The nation is aroused to the defense of American liberty. It is a challenge which calls for a spirited national unity if we are to preserve our most cherished heritage, a free America.

The Constitution guarantees your rights of citizenship. But the responsibility of achieving your own financial independence rests squarely with you.

For two out of every three citizens in Massachusetts, a savings account in a Mutual Savings Bank is the very corner-stone of independence.

The first Mutual Savings Bank in America was founded in Boston in 1816. Today there are 192 of these banks serving every section of the state. Their record for safety is unexcelled by any other banking system. They offer safety and earning power for savings and assistance to home owners through a time tested mortgage plan.

Start an account at your nearest Mutual Savings Bank. Save something each week and see how the savings habit, when it takes root, will also be "a plant of rapid growth."

7th Week for 'Here's Ireland'

Boston's sons and daughters of Erin continue to be thrilled with the beauties of Ireland as Pat Stanton has filmed them.

Stanton's, "Here Is Ireland," is held for a seventh week at the Fine Arts Theater. In two short hours, by cinema, a year's tour of the country is enjoyed. What joy to see the shores of Cork, the Vale of Avoca, where waters meet!

The familiar lakes that are bluer than blue, hills that are greener than green, the burial grounds of pagan Kings, the round stone towers dating back to early civilization, the historic battlegrounds, the martyr's graves, the salmon weirs, Black Rock and Blarney Castles, the river Shannon, the peat bogs, the many heritages from the Celts.

Every tree and every stone has special significance.

For the young American-born who have yet to see the ancestral grounds, Pat Stanton has introduced those places famed in legend, poetry and song. For others he revives beloved memories, because Stanton also includes shots of so many hamlets and villages—all representing "home town' to somebody in America.

Among short subjects on this program is included Walt Disney's Mickey Mouse Cartoon and the latest News of the Day.

'Four Mothers' Now On Bowdoin Screen

"Four Mothers," which has the Lane sisters and Gale Page in the title roles, and "Private Detective," starring Lloyd Nolan, are billed at the Bowdoin for the next three days. The first is the latest addition to the adventures of the Lemp family and its smart daughters. Jeffrey Lynn, Eddie Albert, Claude Rains, May Robson and Frank McHugh are in the cast.

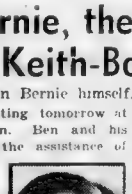
Ben Bernie, the Old Maestro, At Keith-Boston Tomorrow

Yowzir, Ben Bernie himself, the ol' maestro, will head the stage show starting tomorrow at the Keith-Boston. Ben and his lads will have the assistance of the Bailey sisters, June and Sue; Donald Saxon, baritone, and Johnny Ryan, known as the sweet singing Irishman. Then, as added attractions, there will be Cass Daley, noted for her screwball style of singing, dancing and comedy; also Dale Winthrop, who fills the dual role of spotlight beauty and tap dancer.



Ben Bernie

Screen features on this four day Keith-Boston bill will be topped by Six Lessons From Madame La Zonga" with Lupe Velez as the madame who runs a Havana night club.

Bernie and his boys have been the tops in stage and radio show biz a long time, with Ben, aided more or less by his cigar, tapping more music and comedy. His friends and press agents insist that he is Public Entertainer No. 1." Boston seldom sees the maestro in person, and adds particular interest to his Keith Boston engagement.

Leon Errol is started with La Velez in the Havana night club film comedy.

"HOLLYWOOD TODAY," by Louella O. Parsons, noted Filmland authority, appears regularly in the Boston Evening American.

Comedy and glamour are well mixed in the new Ed Ryan burlesque show at the Casino. New brunette belle spotlighted in dance numbers is Bobbie Parker. More charm is Miller, Elinor Walent, Velita and the Blackett twins; and to these charmers must be added the girls in the Chuck Gregory line. These account for the lure and much of the pep.

Vaudeville and films complete the triple bill. One of the rare Casino midnight frolics is billed for Friday, to greet the holiday.

Ballet Russe Opens Season

BY HARRIS MORGAN

The Ballet, second only to grand opera and the Ice Follies in drawing 'em in, is with us again at the Opera House.

And the patronage comes all the way from High Society, which drapes itself lushly around the "floor," to those of the lower income brackets who climb the stairs and look down on everybody.

The troupe is touted as the Original Ballet Russe. Col. W. de Basil director-general, but the Original billing can't fool the regulation ballet addicts. They know it for the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe, which has been halved, rather expanded, because business is good and two ballet companies can cover twice the area of one.

THERE MAY BE THREE

Maybe next year there will be three ballet companies, since the living echo of any worthy organization are susceptible of infinite increment.

But [illegible] got back to real dancers, [illegible] which was the [illegible] Ballet Russe. Leonid Massine, Irina Baronova, Tatiana Riabouchinska, Frederic Franklin, David Lichine, Yurek Shabelevsky, Nicholas Kolin, Paul Petroff, Nina Stroganova, Tatiana Grantzeva, Nina Tarakanova, Tamara Grigorieva, Marina Svetlova, Tatiana Riabouchinska and Tamara Grozavey were the stars of this one.

Another star shone in the pit with the orchestra. He was Eric Landerer, pianist, playing Rachmaninoff's "Rhapsody for Piano and Orchestra on a Theme by Paganini," and playing it noticeably better than the lack-luster team of musicians surrounding him.

"Graduation Ball," by Lichine, was another "first performance" for Johann Strauss waltzes [illegible] cheery [illegible].

The fantastic [illegible] De La Nuit," played [illegible] Tchaikovsky, with [illegible] Massine, than she was [illegible].

"Tancredi," [illegible] Salt Lake," [illegible] Verdi [illegible].

Theater Guild Plans 9 New O'Neill Plays

Eugene O'Neill's cycle of nine plays, "A Tale of Possessors, Self-Dispossessed," will be ready for production next season by the Theatre Guild, also three O'Neill work. The Ice Man Cometh." There is talk of [illegible] company by the same [illegible] who now lives in Oakland, Cal.

W. C. Fields Comedy On Beacon Program

Two comedies are featured on the current Beacon bill. W. C. Fields, who is the tops in fun, has the title role in "Bank Dick." This is a big laugh from beginning to end. Franchot Tone, Andy Devine and Mischa Auer are featured in "Trial of the Vigilantes," which is fun, but [illegible].

Cary, Katharine and Jimmy are three jolly chums from P-H-I-L-A-D-E-L-P-H-I-A

A blue-blooded heiress (spirited, sporting, scandalizing) gets herself engaged to a self-made stuffed shirt (pompous, petty and prudish)! When she sets out to deflate him, the feathers fly! You'll love the way Katharine Hepburn bowls him over.

Besides the stuffed shirt, there are two other fellows—they both think Katharine is rare, reckless and racy. Cary Grant is the ex-husband who's crazy about removing the 'ex' and Jimmy Stewart is a reporter who hates the assignment but loves the subject of it!

Champagne flows . . . moonlight beams . . . and things look pretty romantic to Katharine and Jimmy around midnight! They look pretty suspicious to a couple of other fellows but the whole scene will be a laughing matter to you!

It's anyone's guess who's going to meet Katharine and the parson at the finish line! But it's a fast and racy story to the amazing end! (No wonder the play rocked and shocked Broadway for a solid year.)

T-WHARF'S STIRLING HAYDEN MAKES SCREEN DEBUT AT MET THURSDAY

'Virginia' Story Of Southern Girl

"Virginia," spectacular new technicolor production, starring Madeleine Carroll, Fred MacMurray and Boston's own Stirling Hayden, begins on Thursday at the Metropolitan. The second film will be "Ride, Kelly, Ride," romantic comedy with Eugene Pallette, Marvin Stephens, Mary Healy and Rita Quigley.

"Virginia" is the story of a modern Southern girl, reared in the North, who comes face to face with the problem of having to choose between the North and South, romantically speaking.

Beautiful Madeleine Carroll is the girl who finally decides her heart belongs to the Southland. Fred MacMurray is the "romantic interest," winning for the South over the ardent courtship campaign waged by the dashing young Northerner, Stirling Hayden.

"Virginia" marks the screen debut of Stirling Hayden, the former skipper of Gloucester and Boston's T Wharf.

Hayden has already won international renown as navigator of the Gloucester racing schooner, Gertrude L. Thebaud, and skipper of the brigantine Florence C. Robinson on an epic voyage from Gloucester to Tahiti.

The blonde Viking is hailed as one of the greatest screen "finds" in recent years.

Supporting roles in the southern romance are played by Carolyn Lee, Helen Broderick, Marie Wilson, Paul Hurst and Tom Rutherford. Edward Griffith directed from a screenplay by Virginia Van Upp.

Based on one of Peter B. Kyne's popular novels, "Ride, Kelly, Ride" is a behind-the-scenes drama of racetracks and jockeys.

'Chad Hanna' Reaches Uptown Screen Friday

Henry Fonda plays the title role in "Chad Hanna," small-town circus drama coming to the Uptown screen Friday. Dorothy Lamour appears as the star rider and Linda Darnell as the sweet country girl who marries the hero. Guy Kibbee, Jane Darwell, John Carradine and Roscoe Ates are all prominent.

Another Uptown feature for the next week will be "Four Mothers," with the Lane sisters, Gale Page, Claude Rains and Max Robson.

'Western Union' At Twin Houses

One of Zane Grey's stirring prairie pioneer stories comes to the Paramount and Fenway screens tomorrow in the film called "Western Union," which hinges on the hazardous work done by the telegraph men in the old Indian lands, and incidentally is packed with typical frontier thrills, including Indian raids and a forest fire.

Robert Young, Randolph Scott, Dean Jagger and a new young actress named Virginia Gilmore head the cast in this spectacular 20th Century-Fox production. The men are all heroes, holding their own against the redskins and likewise against the white outlaws who were also plentiful Jagger is the wire line builder. Young, the tenderfoot surveyor, Scott the plainsman who has had his innings with both savages and cattle rustlers. Miss Gilmore is present as the girl at whom Young and Scott make eyes—and being the boss' sister they have to be pretty gallant about it.

The old Wild West excitement is what gives "Western Union" its rating among the best of melodramas made this year along the old trails. John Carradine, Slim Summerville, Barton Maclane and Chill Wills are on the list of prominent players.

On the same bill is "The Case of the Black Parrott," mystery film featuring William Lundigan, Eddie Foy, Jr., Paul Cavanagh and Lulu Deste.

VIRGINIA GILMORE is the girl in the case in "Western Union," thriller on the Paramount and Fenway screens tomorrow.

Hub Opening Cancelled

Woe is the Boston Rialto! The Elsa Lanchester play, which was announced for the Shubert in the near future, is cancelled. And so we are not to see Mrs. Charles Laughton after all. "They Walk Alone" will probably "open cold" in New York.

Vernon Duke Writes Symphony Concerto

Vernon Duke, the young composer who wrote music for "Cabin in the Sky," the Broadway musical comedy starring Ethel Waters, which comes to the Colonial beginning on Monday, March, 10, has just completed a new violin concerto, written at the suggestion of Jascha Heifetz, which is being considered for performance next season by Dr. Koussevitzky and the Boston Symphony Orchestra. It will be the sixth of his serious works to be performed by the Boston organization.

Mr. Duke, who writes his symphonic compositions under his natal name of Vladimir Dukelsky, has been represented on Boston Symphony programs since 1927. His music, introduced locally, includes "Suite From 'Zephyr and Flora'"; two symphonies, "Epitaph" for mixed chorus and orchestra, and a piano concerto played by Sanroma and Dr. Koussevitzky.

Continuous Showing For Catholic Film

Opening Friday at the Shubert Theater is "Cavalcade of Faith," a new picture covering the reign of two Popes and furnishing glimpses of Vatican City in general and the Vatican and St. Peter's in particular. There is a running commentary by Basil Ruysdale. Incidental features show the eucharistic congresses at Chicago, Dublin and Rio de Janeiro. The picture will be shown continuously from 1 p. m. on at popular prices.

Now, events are moving fast . . . for Turkey, long looked upon as a bulwark of the Greek cause, has capitulated under Russian pressure to the German demand to be allowed a corridor into the isthmus, and stifled reports hint of a movement of Nazi soldiers over the Rumanian border into Bulgaria, and through Sofia, capital city, into the ancient confederacy. Already, German planes have taken the air road over Bulgaria, to Greece . . . and an attack to relieve pressure on the Italians in Albania.

"A BILL OF RIGHTS is what the people are entitled to against every government on earth," wrote Thomas Jefferson to James Madison.

1791 to 1941—that is the span of our liberties.

This year is the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the historic Bill of Rights, which formally became part of the Constitution on December 15, 1791.

GOVERNOR LEHMAN
Sets Good Example for Nation to Follow

Governor Lehman, of New York, has led off the year's celebrations of this essentially American event by proclaiming the current week of February 16 to 23 as Bill of Rights Week, to be observed particularly in the public schools of the State.

Hereafter one week in each year will be set aside for the study in New York schools of the Bill of Rights articles in both the Federal and State Constitutions.

This idea should be adopted by every State in the Union and wherever the American flag flies.

We hear a great deal about "The Bill of Rights," but what exactly is this "Bill?" And what does it mean to you?

THE BILL OF RIGHTS is the first ten amendments to our Constitution.

They forbid Congress from making any law establishing a state religion.

They prohibit Congress from abridging the freedom of expression of the newspaper you read.

They prohibit Congress from preventing you to assemble peaceably for a redress of grievances.

No one can enter your house to seize your person or papers and effects without a warrant.

To be held for a capital or other infamous crime you must be indicted by a grand jury; you cannot be tried twice for the same offense; you cannot be a witness against yourself, and you cannot be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law.

The Government itself is forbidden to take private property without just compensation.

You are guaranteed a trial by jury.

If you have been arrested, excessive bail is forbidden.

That is the essence of the world we Americans have created.

That is the spirit of the AMERICAN WAY.

THE ARTICLES of the Bill of Rights are the tables of the law that should be graven on the mind of every child and adult in the land.

That is the treasure-house we must guard with our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor, as the founding fathers pledged.

As Governor Lehman says:

"We know that the safeguards of our freedom will remain strong only if we are VIGILANT and if our faith in democratic processes is UNSHAKEN."

So if we are to continue a free people we must this year do more than just "celebrate" this one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of our Bill of Rights.

WE MUST SOLEMNLY REAFFIRM THE LIBERTIES AND GUARANTEES THAT ARE ENSHRINED IN IT—AND "HIGHLY RESOLVE THAT THEY SHALL NOT PERISH FROM THE EARTH."

NATHAN RICHMAN, nationally known clothing manufacturer, who died this week in Cleveland, was a man of whom it could truthfully be said: "Those who knew him best, loved him most."

To each of his 3700 employes in the factory and 62 retail stores which bear his name, Nathan Richman was known as "Daddy" or "Mr. N. G."

The familiarity was not the "show window" brand.

It was as sincere as it was merited.

Nathan Richman was one of the first great employers to adopt the 36-hour week and to introduce profit-sharing into the clothing business.

Moreover, he sought to be a friend to every member of his big organization, even to the extent of lending a worker money to pay for a new baby or buy a house.

Such men do not really die. Their good works survive them and, as the years pass, prove enduring memorials.

On The Side

-:- -:- By E. V. DURLING

THE WAY of the campaigner can be very difficult. Recently there was launched here a bitter campaign for the return of succotash to restaurant menus. And so what then? Every time I go near a restaurant or coffee shop the manager or somebody drags me in and after showing me succotash is on his menu demands I try the same. "I just had my lunch," I protested to Baron Long, the celebrated boniface. "I can't eat any succotash." Mr. Long, who measures over six feet and weighs around 200 pounds, took me by the arm and said menacingly: "Listen, you asked for succotash, now you eat some and like it." What I can't understand is, however, when I campaigned for a smoother smoke no cigar-store owners dragged me in and made me smoke 25-cent cigars. You may credit it or otherwise, but a sweet voiced young woman just called up and said: "We have succotash on the menu today, Mr. Durling." I said: "That's fine but I'm not hungry right now and, besides, I think I have done all any man could be expected to do for succotash." Said she: "Aw, please come over and try some of ours. I asked the boss to put it on the menu especially for you." Well, what could I do?

CONFIDENTIAL: British Prime Minister Churchill stated in an autobiographical sketch: "My marriage was the most fortunate and joyous event which happened in my life; for what can be more glorious than to be united in one's walk through life with a being incapable of an ignoble thought" . . . Feminine client says: "There are 37 reasons why women wear slacks; two of these are because they are easier to do house work in and when worn on the street conceal the under pinnings of those women who have not been so kindly endowed in the matter of legs as La Dietrich and Mlle. Claudette Colbert" . . . Now the Japanese are making explosives out of potatoes. The Nazis have been making motor fuel from potatoes for a long time. That making of motor fuel from spuds reminds me of my idea of growing potatoes on my ranch and making a fuel called "Potatoline." I really should patent that name. Be prepared to some day see on a huge electric sign on the great white way: "Use Durling's Potatoline. More Miles per Potato."

PLEASE NOTE: The actress whose looks and manner of dressing is most admired by young matrons is Gertrude Lawrence . . . Remember that play "An Englishman's Home," by Guy du Maurier. As it deals with an armed invasion of England it might be a good thing to revive.

-:- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Tuesday — At the White House the other night, we were shown the movie, "Major Barbara." It is a very human story and one I think many of us will enjoy. I saw the play many years ago, and it has been well produced and is very effective as a movie.

Mrs. Helm, Miss Thompson and I went to a luncheon yesterday, given by Mrs. John Herrick as a second celebration for Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr.'s., birthday.

If the number of parties given for some one is any indication of the affection that people have for that person, Mrs. Morgenthau should realize how many people have warm spots in their hearts for her.

The prizes won by Mrs. Herrick's dogs were on exhibition, and I was duly impressed. After lunch, when I saw the dogs running around outside, I could readily understand that they would be winners.

They are really beautiful dogs, but "Falla," the President's little scottie, still holds my heart. Though I have only a toy dog to keep him company at present, some day I shall have a live one when I really live in the country again.

WE HAD a most interesting and delightful evening last night. Before our party began, I dropped in for a few minutes at a dinner given by one of Mrs. Von Hesse's speech classes. Her youngest pupil recited a poem to music and it was really remarkably well done. I was back at the White House before our guests arrived.

After dinner, Mr. Allan Lomax, who has been collecting and making records of American folk songs for the library of Congress, put on, under Mr. Macleish's direction, a program partly sung by professionals and partly by boys from nearby Army, Navy and Marine Corps camps.

I think everyone enjoyed the evening. The honors went about equally to the professionals and the non-professionals.

I HOPE these songs spread through all the branches of the services. I would like to see musical instruments available and records of these songs in the reception centers of every group and in every community center near a camp throughout the country.

I think it would serve to make us conscious of our own rich background of folk literature and music.

Our youngest grandchild is becoming quite accustomed to the White House. He is brought down every morning at nine and says: "How do you do," to everyone at breakfast and then I take him on a round of visits.

First he sees his grandfather, and there he has a grand time with "Falla." "Falla" likes him as much as he likes "Falla."

He pokes his little hand right into the dog's mouth and gets it licked all over and smiles broadly when "Falla" dances round on his hind legs trying to reach him.

HEMINGWAY PAGES WRONG PLACES

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Feb. 19—I treasure among my souvenirs such interesting mementos as a radiogram which Ernest Hemingway sent from Havana. I received it aboard the S. S. Manhattan in the Panama Canal . . . I had arranged to meet Hemingway at the pier in Havana, but a storm delayed my arrival in port for more than six hours. The radiogram read: "Sorry to have missed you and Sylvia at the pier. Waited there, then paged all the tearooms in town, because I know you don't drink' . . . We had paged all the barrooms in town, because we know that Hemingway does . . .

TWO BLUE CARDS: They mark the resumption of a friendship with Abel Green, editor—a friendship which, for some silly reason, had been disrupted a few years earlier . . . We had arrived in Paris coincident with the arrival of King George and Queen Elizabeth. For five hours I was shuttled between governmental bureaus seeking two permits to witness the welcoming parade—without avail. My application plus three photographs of myself should have been submitted six weeks earlier, they assured me—so that Scotland Yard and the Paris police would have been able to check up on me. By now it was too late . . . And so we returned to our hotel, to find the two blue permits from the Prefecture de Police for the "Visite de Leurs Majestes Britanniques" . . . "Welcome to Paris. Thought you might want these," was the accompanying note. "Abel Green."

TWO MATCH-BOXES. Three simple lines are written on the face of each—"Ein Reich, Ein Volk, Ein Fuchrer" . . . I took them from the waiting room in the airport at Vienna, as a conscience-appeaser for having spent 10 cents in Germany. But I had been unable to resist the temptation—to spend that dime for a stamp and a postcard which ultimately was received by the addressee . . . That card, with its Nazi postmark, was sent to Walter Winchell. The message was: "Having wonderful time. Wish you were here."

A HELLINGER COLUMN: It's dated Nov. 6, 1933 . . . Mark Hellinger had conducted a contest for the readers who thought they could write column stories. Hellinger wrote the first two paragraphs—and the contestants were invited to complete the story. "Don't forget," he warned, "that the ending must pack a wallop" . . . Hellinger's contest announcement, to which 7112 readers replied, concluded with: "Anyway, you'll have a lot of fun. And who knows but I may dig up the star columnist of the future? There's just one thing I'm worried about. Can you imagine what the public will do to me if I dig up another Winchell?" . . . Neither of the events which Hellinger feared has come to pass. I was a prize winner—and I am neither the star columnist of the future nor another Winchell.

ALSO A LETTER written by Quentin Reynolds on July 13, 1936, addressed to Dr. Ernst Hanfstaengl, Wilhelmstrasse, Berlin. It read. "This will introduce Leonard Lyons, and I know, in line with your usual courteous treatment of foreign correspondents, you will receive him and facilitate things for him. As for you, Putzy, I may be seeing you in a couple of weeks, and trust we may hoist many a bowl at the Taverne" . . . The card, addressed to Reynolds in New York while he was duckling German bombs in London, was mailed from Internment Camp R, Ottawa, Canada. The message was: "Will you please get in touch with me, and oblige—Prisoner of War No. 3026—Ernst Hanfstaengl."

AN UNPUBLISHED MANUSCRIPT: Its title is "Billy the Kid." I wrote it because Billy Rose had told me that a magazine was anxious to publish an article about him—that, inasmuch as I had written more stories about him than did any other newspaperman, the task should be a simple one . . . And so I wrote a 10,000-word article, using the anecdotes I had published—all of them told to me by Mr. Rose—added some further anecdotes which he had told me but which had been too long for use in the column—and sent the manuscript to the magazine. It was accepted and the price agreed upon . . . One week later the editors informed me that they regretted, etc.—but that their lawyer, Arthur Garfield Heys, who also was Billy Rose's lawyer, had warned that, upon publication, the sensitive Mr Rose would sue for libel.

EXCLUSIVE: At least two, and probably three trial blackouts of Boston are planned for the coming summer . . . And if stronger words or actions from East or West are forthcoming shortly, the vexing international situation will be reflected in orders to despatch yachtsmen to avoid definite zones outside Boston harbor—which will be mined.

THE WRITER KNOWN TO READERS of the "H*Y*M*A*N K*A*P*L*A*N" series in The New Yorker, Leonard Q. Ross, is really Dr. Leonard C Rosten, and the reason his name makes news at this time is that the New York liberal faction is plumping for him to become the George Creel of the 1941 propaganda and information service.

IN WASHINGTON, a gentleman named Melville, who is very close to FDR, is seen as the most likely candidate for this portentous job . . . Mr. Ross, or Dr. Rosten, currently has the title of "expert consultant on motion pictures of the Advisory Commission to the Council on National Defense."

THE MINISTRY OF INFORMATION," informed newspapermen say, will spring into being on the real M-Day, and it will be equivalent to the overseas bureaus of censorship . . . When such a ministry does become an actuality, items such as the foregoing would come under its scrutiny.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Sybil Bowan, the famous creative mimic who is a favorite of Boston vaudeville lovers, has prepared a brand new routine for her spot on the Thursday night Carnival for British War Relief . . . An outpouring of society's so-called creme de la creme, however, is expected to convert Sybil to a performance of the tried-and-true material which her regular fans have been applauding for years . . . The ropes will be out for this party, and watching space will be at a premium, the committee thinks.

THE IMMINENT DEPARTURE of Vaughn Monroe from the Statler's Terrace Room has created a bevy of intense hopefuls for the coveted spot . . . Al Jahns, whose "music that charms" is living up to its billing at the Providence Biltmore, is a candidate for the job, through the persistent recommendation of a number of friends in the bigtime of music . . . The Jahns vocalist, the surname-less "Louise," is Mrs. Jahns.

WATCH FOR THE SETTLEMENT of The ASCAP-BMI feud by April 1 . . . The ASCAP publishers are scheduling their key cities staffs for vacations now, while the slack season brought about by the great Battle of Music is on . . . ASCAP will emerge with at least one vital concession—the right to charge the radio chains for performing rights "at the source" . . . The "source" is at the counting-offices of the networks, not of the independent stations.

QUESTIONS ABOUT THE IDENTITY of Gladys Lamb, the star of the Copley Plaza's impending ice revue, are answered by the Encyclopedia-Brittanica . . . Only two female skaters are mentioned . . . Sonja Henie and Gladys Lamb.

AS IT REQUIRED no super-acuteness to predict, your reporter anticipated a "run" on George M. Cohan plays and musicals with the success of "Little Nelly Kelly" . . . "The Song and Dance Man" is Hollywood's first gesture in that direction, and Jack Oakie will play the role created by Lynn Overman . . . George M. took over when Lynn quit, in the belief that he was not suited to the part . . . Bostonians who knew Charles King, the hero of the original "Little Nelly Kelly," will be delighted to hear that Charlie has won his first important Broadway role in years . . . He has taken over Jimmy Dunn's part in the hugely successful, "Panama Hattie."

IT'S HIS OWN STORY OF CHILD STAR

By Loudla O. Parsons

Jackie Cooper

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 19—A movie which Bradford Ropes has written for Jackie Cooper has many autobiographical touches and reflects in part the life of Jackie himself. The story is that of a child star who, at the age of 19, having outgrown his success in movies, starts coaching another little child in the type of role in which he was most successful.

In a sense the story is fictional since Jackie is riding high after having retired from the screen at the ripe old age of 14. As you will remember, the Cooper lad came back and made a smashing hit in "White Banners." Then he was starred in the "Ahhich Family" series, which he has now outgrown, but he has become such a good actor that he stepped right from adolescence into grownup roles without losing a day on the screen.

Sometimes I look at the picture of "Skippy" that he autographed to me so many years ago and I can hardly believe that Jackie is a young man keeping dates with Bonita Granville.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Cesar Romero had six birthday cakes on the set of "Great American Broadcast"—and that reminds me. Cesar doesn't care who knows that his favorite girl friend is Priscilla Stillman.

Eddie Hillman bought the Orry Kelly prize winning creation for his wife, Jane Inverclyde, at the Sylvia Fairbanks-Lady Mendl pay cocktail party. Sol Grauman paid $350 for it and then turned it back to be auctioned.

VIRGINIA FIELD

Virginia Field modeled the dress and she looked so pretty in it it might have been made for her: Sir Charles Mendl bought Mary Pickford's hat and later presented it to her. She bought the creation I wore and later it was sold to Mrs. Johnnie Weissmuller's mother.

That reminds me, Johnnie and Beryl were together as happy as happy could be; Mary Hay looked as cute as she could be in a big picture hat which brought $35. Liz Whitney was one of the bidders; Bill Haines bought Constance Bennett's chapeau with the stipulation she wear it in a picture.

Cobina Wright's hat went at a big price. Heather Thatcher modeled Sally Eilers' chapeau, which was one of the prettiest hats worn; Fay Wray, who sold many tickets, was with Raymond Hakim. They remained for dinner with Sylvia Fairbanks at the House of Murphy after the party was over.

WHEN CAMERAS start grinding on "The Little Foxes" you can put it down in your little book that James Stephenson will be playing the plum role of Bette Davis' husband. This will reunite the Academy Award trio of candidates all up for "The Letter"—Bette, Stephenson and Willie Wyler—and they're plenty potent if you ask me.

There isn't an actress and a director in the business who work better together than Bette and William Wyler. To him she is the top actress of all time and Bette makes no secret of considering Willie dropped straight out of Heaven as a director.

They both want Stephenson for the husband but since this is Sam Goldwyn's picture his okay will be necessary and Sam won't hold out, for he has great respect for Wyler and of course he wants to keep La Davis happy.

I DON'T WONDER Bob Hope is terrifically upset over the short "Calling All Cars" featuring him which is now being shown in New York. It seems it was made six years ago and is one of those quickies made over night, so to speak. If Bob hadn't suddenly achieved fame, both on the radio and screen, the pictures would never have been reissued, but now that he is popular these shorts have been taken out of their wrappings and shown to the world.

The same thing has happened to other stars. Shirley Temple, for instance, made movies for an independent company before she joined 20th Century-Fox and when she was at her height as a child actress they were reissued in many theaters.

THE BEST STORY IDEA I've heard in a long time is Sol Siegel's bright hunch to produce an opus titled "World Premiere" (commonly called "premeer" by you and me). It's based on one of these junkets such as have been staged to Dodge City or Miami with newspaper people and movie stars on the bandwagon—but here's where the excitement comes in—somebody is murdered. Hope it isn't a columnist.

Beauty

Cleopatra's Skin Secret

By ARLINE GOULD

CLEOPATRA, the sultry charmer, hit a new high in lush living . . . with her historic milk baths . . . but even if there's no Marc Antony involved . . . the combination of steam heat and blustery weather the season brings . . . adds up to complexion-suicide . . . so why not steal Cleo's potent thunder . . . in a chaste way?

For those delicate, thin skins . . . already ravished by too-dry indoor air and winter's fury . . . a long-time beauty favorite comes up in a brand-new guise . . . a rich emollient liquid now, especially designed for dry skin . . . to restore the petal-fresh smooth complexion that has fallen victim to the season.

Here's where Cleo's trick comes in . . . this luscious new formula cleansing milk is 80 per cent pasteurized milk . . . and for extra potency in refurbishing winter-ravished skin . . . the other 20 per cent is of extra rich, pure lubricating oils.

And whether the complaint is seasonal attacks of dry skin . . . or an all-year-round problem . . . this "milk" answers the question of cleansing . . . for it avoids the daily scrubbing with soaps . . . which, however mild . . . have an alkaline quality that makes a sensitive epidermis feel tight and drawn.

This magically soothing skin-cleanser purges the pores of dirt . . . at one and the same time tendering a skin-surface that is clear and lovable . . . and not even is tissue necessary to remove the milk, and perhaps invite irritation . . . one simply rinses the liquid with clear, warm water, and a cloud-soft little sponge.

So is a complexion aid initiated by one of history's potent charmers . . . applicable to would-be lovely moderns . . . and at a normal price, too . . . so that . . . whether they dash through wind and sleet to the subway . . . or challenge New England's champion ski-trails . . . this emollient cleanser will combat delicate skins dried to flakiness in overheated rooms . . . and roughened to ugliness redness in biting winds.

Moreover . . . for those oily skins that suffer almost as much in this rigorous climate . . . this same famed beautician has concocted a similar 80 per cent milk cleansing fluid . . . the other 20 per cent of cloud-light non-greasy vegetable oils . . . to create a loveliness of complexion to defy all the elements.

Whoever may suffer from a skin problem born of winter weather . . . has only to phone Arline Gould, week-days except Saturday, or write her care of the American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope . . . to learn where to buy these effective dispellers of that "weather-beaten" look.

BOSTON COUPLE TAKE FLORIDA HONEYMOON

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Quigley of Boston have left for a honeymoon trip to Florida, following their marriage Saturday, in the rectory of the Holy Cross Cathedral Rt. Rev. Richard J. Cushing, Auxiliary Bishop of Boston, performed the ceremony and there was a small reception for the immediate families at the Copley Plaza.

Miss Madeline Quigley of Boston was the bride's only attendant and Richard N. Wise of Hackensack, N. J., the best man. The newlyweds will make their home at 90 Commonwealth ave.

Smart Set Fashions

FASHION'S FINAL FILLIP . . . to any smart ensemble . . . is gloves . . . and by her gloves one can judge any woman's chic . . . these adaptable tailored gloves lend grace to the hands . . . by virtue both of their cut and of their length . . . this style is perfect for this spring season's feminine modes . . . because of its adaptability . . . and their four-star virtue is that the petal-soft doeskin of which they are fashioned will wash many, many times . . . and come up with supple beauty and hue undimmed . . . phone the fashion department, Liberty 4000, or write in to the American to learn what Boston store offers these hand-charmers.

Cambridge Man to Wed

Takes Pennsylvania Bride

Saturday, March 8, has been chosen as the wedding date of Virginia Walton of St. David's, Pa., and John Absalom Baird, Jr., of Cambridge. The afternoon ceremony will be performed in Wayne, Pa., with a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Walton.

The bridegroom-to-be, son of Colonel and Mrs. John A. Baird of Memorial Drive, Cambridge, is a Princeton 1940 graduate and now in business in Baltimore. His brother, Edwin W. Baird of Cambridge, will attend him as best man.

Dr. Gordon Palmer will officiate at the wedding and members of the bridal party will include Mrs. Bennington R. Van Camp of Groton, Ct., Barbara Walton of St. David's, Elizabeth Emach, Mildred Webb, Mary Lex and Barbara Hauxhurst, all of Pennsylvania.

Pre-wedding parties will include a rehearsal dinner, at which Mary Lex will be hostess at her home in Strafford. Miss Lex is another future Boston bride, her engagement to James Millar of Boston and Plymouth, having been announced recently. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boyd of Merion, Pa., will be hosts at a dinner and theater party this Saturday evening in honor of Miss Walton and Mr Baird.

Miss Walton graduated from the Shipley School in 1936 and the University of Pennsylvania last June. Following a Southern honeymoon the couple will live in Baltimore.

BOSTON SOCIALITES SPONSOR MUSICALE

Mrs. T. Handasyd Cabot, Mrs. Langdon Frothingham and Mrs. C. Nichols Greene are sponsors of a musicale to be held Thursday evening, Feb. 20th, at the studio of Mr. Richard Piatt, 16 Lime st. Guest artists will be Zarahu Elmessian, soprano, and Mrs. Lewis Armistead accompanist. Other prominent patrons of music sponsoring the affair are Mrs. George Hawley, Miss Josephine G. Griffith, Mrs. George Lee, Miss Fanny P. Mason, Mrs. Josiah Quincy, Helen M. Ranney, the Misses Townsend and Miss Florence Viaux.

GUESTS IN GOTHAM

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Fox, and son John Jr., and Mrs. Thomas V Urmy of Chestnut Hill are spending a few days at the New Weston in New York. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Walker have returned to Chestnut Hill after visiting at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Let's Give a Cocoa Party

By MARTHA LEE

FEBRUARY is the month for all kinds of weather, says the weather man, but homemakers know that a Cocoa Party, whether it's raining, snowing or just a lovely day, is always in favor.

Skiers and skaters brought the humble chocolate new popularity. These active folks come in with ravenous appetites and want something filling—and when they say "filling," they mean it! Thick, luscious bran bread, bursting with nut meats and right from your own oven, is the answer. Butter and spread with cream cheese, apple butter, or both, and the result is something to be remembered.

ALL-BRAN NUT BREAD

1 egg
¾ cup sugar
1 cup milk
2 tbsp. melted shortening
¾ cup all-bran
2¼ cups flour
1 tsp. salt
3 tsp. baking powder
¾ cup chopped nut meats

Beat egg and sugar until light. Add milk, shortening and all-bran. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; combine with nut meats; add to first mixture, stirring only until flour disappears. Bake in greased loaf pan, with waxed paper in the bottom, in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 1 hour and 10 minutes. Makes 1 loaf (4½x9½ inch pan).

When your women's club meets, refreshments take on an important role. Put a few drops of vanilla in the cocoa and a dab of whipped cream on top, and with it serve a delectable dainty called Chess Tarts. They're jammed with a spicy, curranty mixture that tastes like something the angels thought up.

CHESS TARTS

2 eggs
1 cup brown sugar
1 tbsp. melted butter
¼ cup milk
½ tsp. vanilla extract
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. cloves
¾ cup chopped walnut meats
½ cup currants
1 recipe all-bran pastry

Beat eggs well; add sugar and butter; mix thoroughly. Add remaining ingredients and fill all-bran pastry lined tart pans. Bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) about 45 minutes. Makes eight 3-inch tarts.

ALL-BRAN PASTRY

½ cup all-bran
1½ cups flour
½ tsp. salt
½ cup shortening
4 tbsp. cold water (more or less)

Roll all-bran until fine; combine with flour and salt. Cut in shortening. Add water, a little at a time, until dough is moist enough to hold together. Roll out on lightly floured board to about ⅛ inch in thickness.

If it's a children's party you're giving, you won't need to be reminded about cocoa. But don't forget that it's not a party to the youngsters if there isn't a big, round cake. Try the recipe for Cocoanut Krispy Cake given below. The golden brown cocoanut topping baked right with the batter gives a festive appearance and mouth-watering appeal.

COCOANUT KRISPY CAKE

2-3 cup shortening
1¼ cups sugar
3 eggs
3 cups flour
2½ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1 cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla extract

Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add unbeaten egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Sift flour with baking powder and salt and add alternately with combined milk and flavoring to creamed mixture. Beat well. Fold in egg whites, beaten until stiff but not dry. Pour batter into greased cake pan lined with waxed paper.

TOPPING

2 eggs
1 cup brown sugar
1 tsp. vanilla extract
¼ tsp salt
1 cup shredded cocoanut
1 cup corn flakes
1 cup chopped nut meats

For topping—beat eggs well, add brown sugar gradually and continue beating until light and fluffy. Add flavoring, salt, cocoanut, corn flakes and nut meats. Mix well. Drop by the spoonful on top of unbaked cake batter and spread evenly. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 45 minutes. Makes 1 large loaf cake (9 x 13-inch pan).

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Wednesday, Feb. 19

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You are outspoken, sometimes unwittingly curt; honest in purpose and word, a trait to be well protected. Executive ability. Independent, cheerful, sympathetic, upright. Do depend always upon God and the blessings with which He has endowed you. Business activity dominant. Be observing. Take diversion in sensible doses only. Unnecessary criticizing is taboo. Indecision and inactivity may tempt! And avoid any selfish outlooks.

LUCKY NUMBER—Today's lucky number is 67.

LUCKY COLOR—Today's lucky color is emerald.

They're Doing Their Bit

By BETTY ALDEN

IN NERVE WRACKED EUROPE, Russia and things Russian seem to be doing little or nothing to help the embattled Greeks . . . yet, paradoxically, the Ballet Russe (which is a classy way of saying "Russian Ballet") did a great deal to aid the Greek War Relief fund here in Boston last night . .

We should say the Ballet Russe and a very clever and hard working committee combined forces to substantially swell the Greek Relief fund . . Mrs. Mortimer Seabury and Mrs. William Brace Pratt thought up so many novel ideas and sold so many tickets for the opening performance of the Ballet that the affair was thoroughly enjoyable as well as successful . .

The supper room in the upstairs foyer opposite the boxes was transformed by murals and fancy decorations into a corner of ancient Athens where a group of Greek musicians strummed on their instruments while fashionable Bostonians enjoyed a repast of hors d'oeuvres, wine and soft drinks during intermissions . . .

A bevy of debs and their Harvardian boy friends did a land office business selling corsages of flowers in the Greek colors, which served as "tickets" to the supper room . . . Add these novelties to a brilliant performance by the ballerinas and dancers of the company and the result was a very pleasant and financially successful evening for a worthy cause . .

Who'll Buy a Posy? Everyone!

MRS. SEABURY, wearing a lovely white gown sprinkled with shiny silver beads, and Mrs. Pratt, whose unusual brown taffeta gown had a peplum of gold coque feathers, saw to it that the debs were well supplied with posies to sell, and had plenty of change ready for the boys who served as cashiers for the flower vendors . . .

One of the earliest arrivals was blonde Olive Perry of Brookline, in a family party with her mother and brother . . . Olive's sea green tulle gown had a long sleeved bodice of matching velvet and she wore a small black velvet bow in her hair . . . The same shade of green fashioned the long sleeved fitted bodice of Mary Elizabeth Sears' gown which had a full skirt of green and gold brocade . . . Her wrap was a striking square shouldered military cape of white crushed velvet with gold braid epaulettes . . .

Looking Around the Supper Room

SAMPLING THE HORS D'OEUVRES in the supper room were Mr. and Mrs. Timothee Adamowski, leaders among Boston's music patrons, who joined a little group including Mrs. Robert Stevenson and Mrs. Arthur Bell . . . Mrs. Adamowski wore a cluster of white lilacs on the front of her sheer black lace gown and her jewels included a pearl necklace, pearl drop earrings and a large diamond clip on her satin purse . . . Both Mrs. Stevenson and Mrs. Bell sported their sumptuous chinchilla capes, the former over a striking gown of heavenly blue chiffon trimmed with silver, and Mrs. Bell over a slim black dress trimmed with irridescent sequins and dusty pink roses.

Charles Francis Adams, one of Boston's most aristocratic citizens and staunch supporter of every worthy cause, stopped to purchase a posy from Mrs. George Saltonstall West who attended with members of her family . . . Her blonde post deb "Muff" was surrounded by beaus who bought her flowers and saw to it that she was well supplied with good things to eat and sip . . .

Her Sales Talk Went Over Big

HARDLY ANYONE could resist the sales "line" of Alice Hunsacker and Emmet Whitlock who sold loads of flowers on the promise that the ballet stars would be in the supper room to meet the audience . . . Priscilla Blumer had John Buss as her stalwart Harvardian "cashier," George Thomson helped

JOHN BURR and Priscilla Blumer did their share for Greek War Relief last evening by selling corsages to a fashionable audience at the benefit performance of the Original Ballet Russe at the Opera House. Miss Blumer is the debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Blumer of Boston.

Barbara Higginson and Polly Curtis was with Thomas Higginson . . .

And Among Others Present

How to Make a Splendid Cough Remedy at Home

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of truly wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving for you, because it gives you about four times as much for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is actually a surprisingly effective, quick-acting cough remedy. Promptly, you feel it taking hold. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You've never seen anything better for prompt and pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

SHE'S 49, and suddenly, very bitter. It isn't the years. She's sure she wouldn't mind the years. Everyone has to grow old—outside. Youth's just a word. You're as young as you feel. So being 49 wouldn't matter if people only understood that she really hasn't changed inside—that she is actually as young as she was at 19.

But there's the thing that hurts. People don't understand. Won't even try to understand. Even her dearest friends—her own husband and children—won't try to understand.

It's all so strange! Terrifying! Often and oftener, now, she has that queer sensation—as if she were lost—lost in a dream—as if she were shut off from all the world, and nobody knew her.

BUT WHY? Why should years make this difference? Why can't people see the True Her as plainly as she sees herself? There she is, just as she was when a girl. The same little girl. Not changed a particle. Oh, why can't they all see that she's just the same.

Yes, maybe she has changed a little outside. Of course she has grown more careful. Perhaps a little slower, more reserved. She doesn't rush into things the way she used to. She doesn't work herself to a frazzle. And, thank goodness, she doesn't let people pull things over her eyes, the way she did once.

But that's all outside. Inside she hasn't changed a bit. Not a bit. Why, she's just as friendly and affectionate as she ever was. Good-natured, too, and generous. She'd do anything for anybody. And she likes the same simple things.

Queer, how life changes some people. Gives them all sorts of tiresome new tastes, set notions, disagreeable habits. But, thank goodness, life hasn't changed her like that. She's the same, sweet simple girl she was 30 years ago, back in dear old Greenfield. The same, honest, brave, warm-hearted girl.

Standing before her bedroom mirror, she looks and looks. A few wrinkles and gray hair, perhaps. A little stouter. But outside of that, not the least difference. There, looking back at her, is that lost girl's face—soft lips half parted in eager wonder, eyes starry with their secret delight.

Then slowly, the eyes reddden, brim with difficult, angry tears. The mouth droops, hardens.

For it's all so cruel! Life's so cruel! People are cruel! Nobody understands! Nobody wants to understand. They treat her as if she were a queer, unkind stranger. Just another mean old woman. They treat her like that! After all she's done for them!

AM I WRITING about a particular person? Yes, stranger, I am. I'm writing about millions of particular persons. About you, and you, and you and about me, myself. About the whole human race—FOR WE'RE ALL LIKE THAT!!

We all carry a picture of ourselves in our minds and, as the years gather, we grow more and more bitter at other people, because they don't see that picture—because they insist on seeing quite a different picture. But the simple sad truth is—

THEY CAN'T SEE THE PICTURE OF OURSELVES WHICH WE SEE, FOR IT NO LONGER EXISTS, SAVE IN OUR OWN IMAGINATION.

Couldn't we still stay young—as "young at 60 as we were at 16?" Yes, we could, BUT WE CAN'T DO IT BY LYING TO OURSELVES. We can only do it by FACING OURSELVES as we really are—and getting busy on the people we've become!

HARVARD EDITORS TEA PARTY HOSTS

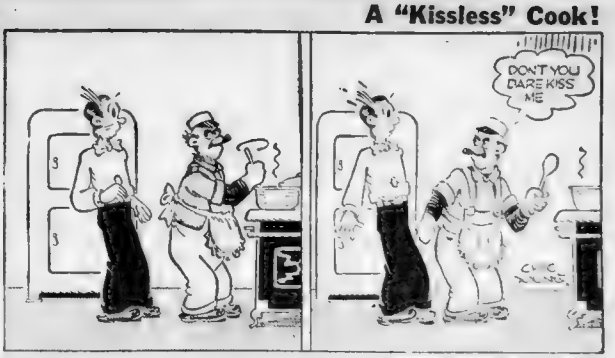
A "Kissless" Cook!



Last Semester

By Anthony Rud

PAST FIFTY, half-bald, cantankerous, a good judge of hard cider and Guernsey cattle if I do say it myself, but no hand with the women-folks. That's me, Seth Satterlee. I'm getting the worst out of the way first.

Now maybe you can understand why a grumpy old man with a piece of Belleau Wood shrapnel still in his hip somewhere, got so riled up over something that was really none of his business.

You might say it began thirty-five years ago when I first saw Blue-eyed Millie Reynolds sitting up there in front with her wealthy dad, who was the first man in the Berk-hures to sport one of those big, cream-colored White Steamer automobiles.

I was on my way back to the farm after school that day, and I had a stiff lot of chores ahead. But somehow my fool head got a picture inside it—and it had to do with angels, lovely things, and foolishness of the sort. That picture is still there, even when kid dreams have been laid away and forgotten for long decades.

Millie was about ten at the time. I was about sixteen.

When I came back from France in 1919, a top-kick of leathernecks, Millie was married to Arthur Hallett of Stockbridge, and there already were two tiny Halletts. Twin girls, Millicent and Amy.

Of course I'd never really known Millie intimatey, though she'd gone to a dance or two with me. So I had no possible reason in the world to feel bad. Just the same I suppose I did. There always had been a sort of pull inside me, toward that girl.

So I pitched in and worked my head off for years. Both my folks passed on, and the big dairy farm came to me. It neighbored the Hallett show place on the east, so after a while I began to see quite a little of the two girls, the twins, as they were growing up. Both of them made friends with me and my cows, though Amy was by far the friendlier of the two.

Young Millie always pretended to shudder and shrink away from cows.

No, young Millie, who was an almost breath-taking replica of her mother—somehow without that redeeming other-worldliness about her, though—simply played a game that she was a society grande dame or queen, like Marie Antoinette must have been in her day, and refused to believe that there were such things as country yokels, cows and silos anywhere inside her horizon.

A SWEET CHILD

Amy was called plain. She certainly wasn't pretty, but I got to know her. She was honest and nice. She was brilliant in her studies.

Art Hallett died, and left debts, a big place blanketed with a heavy mortage, and most of his life insurance had been cashed in to pay the bills for his several operations which had failed to save his life.

The Cast of Characters in "Last Semester"

SETH SATTERLEE, who considers himself disappointed in love. In later years he becomes interested in one of the daughters of the woman who was his one and only infatuation

I saw Millie—my Millie—a few times then. She looked haggard, worried. Her hair was turning gray under the silver, but she stuck to her guns. It was her first duty to marry off her daughters, or one of them, brilliantly. There seemed no immediate hope for Amy, who was plain, but a sweetheart through and through. Millie, the younger, was engaged to a young man, son of a famous architect. His family had millions . .

Amy used to come over and see me a lot now. She called me Uncle Seth. I liked that. She told me she didn't believe she would go back to school for her last year. All the money the family could scrape together was going to be needed in putting her sister, young Millie, across.

I didn't care what happened to young Millie. To me she seemed just plain affected, and no-account, the product of too much money and leisure. But of course her mother and dad had done most of that to her. The girl herself might have been just as nice all the way throught as her mother, if it hadn't all been horseback-to-hounds, cocktails and decollete since she was about 10 years old.

I did begin to worry about Amy, and to ask her questions. She was all in line for an assistant's job teaching at her college, once her diploma was in hand. Seems she was one of the highest honor students they'd ever had. And now—because her twin sister was engaged, and had to carry through a lot of social hooey, ending in a church wedding, reception and so forth, Amy wasn't going back for her last year at college!

SETH'S SCHEME

I tell you I got so dang mad about it, I almost went over in my Levi Strauses, to pay a call on Millie the mother, and tell her what I thought about it. But in the clutch my heart went back on me. I was afraid of Millie.

So I hatched out a plot. I sent a check for a thousand four hundred and eleven berries and eighty-eight cents, to Mrs Arthur Hallett, explaining that this was repayment of loan, with interest in full to date at six per cent, made by her husband to me four years before . . . and I never had spoken two words to Art Hallet in my life.

Both twins made friends with him, although Amy was by far the friendliest of the two.

I thought that would fix up Amy, and it did for a time. She went back to school, and wrote me a couple of letters, telling me her progress was splendid. Amy had got a chance to tutor other girls for three or four hours each day, and so was helping out with expenses. Even so . . . her letters got more forlorn . . . she thought it would be her duty to quit at the Christmas vacation, or at end of the semester right after that.

She might not come home for Christmas, so she could end that next-to-last semester . . .

Then she wrote me a funny note. She said that if her father ever had had a thousand dollars to lend anyone at any time, I was the only person who ever had discovered the fact. The girl as much as called me a humbug. I got all red in the face and sent her a real hot letter, telling her there were lots of things in the business world that women never did learn anything about.

Meanwhile Millie had got around to driving over to my place with her liveried chauffeur in the big limousine she still kept, and stopping a moment to thank me for repaying that debt which somehow had been forgotten. Her lawyer had told her to accept it if the cancelled check was ever found, for me, since it seemed the note had been misplaid temporarily.

I assured her I was satisfied, and we shook hands as she left. "After January, Seth," she said, a little wistfully—January being when they were going to have the wedding—"you might come over and see me, and talk over old times. I'm going to be very lonesome, with my little girl married . . ."

Well, that was all right, but when the mailman came there was a letter from Amy that made me cuss a blue streak. I didn't wait for anything, but hopped in the flivver and went right down to the bank. Getting a bankroll sufficient, I took the train right off for the college town. I'll call it Forrestville.

"SHE'S GOOD"

It was evening then, but I looked up the dean at her home. Then I told her I wanted to sort of endow a scholarship for one semester for a girl who was a friend of mine, but who couldn't make the grade financially to finish her course and get her diploma. And I wanted the whole thing kept secret.

"Well, Mr. Satterlee," she mused, "this is really a splendid thing for you to be doing. Amy is such a one good friend, hasn't she?"

"The kid deserves her chance," I blurted. "She's good."

"Hm, Mr. Satterlee, I quite agree with you. In fact, the matter has been up for discussion at the faculty committee. Just yesterday Miss Amy Hallett was voted a full fellowship in the English department. This will pay all her expenses with a little left over and leave her to graduate debt free."

"I must go and tell Amy with us on the front porch in September . . . Thank you for not Mr. Satterlee and tell her [illegible]"

Glory and . . . She got up and shook hands with me. I managed to get out and away—only to meet Amy herself right out at the curb. "Dad only knows what sort of lie I told. But I was sure inside of me. What a dirty trick. Amy was wise enough so she'd find out. Dear . . .

Your best friend says: PAZO for Simple PILES

Relieves pain and soreness

There's good reason why PAZO ointment has been used to relieve itching of simple Piles. First, PAZO ointment immediately relieves pain and soreness. Then PAZO lubricates, so hard, dry portions help prevent cracking and irritation. Third PAZO has a unique way of bringing comfort. Use as directed. Easy to use. PAZO's perforated Pile pipe makes application simple, thorough. Your doctor can tell you about PAZO ointment.

Ascap Will Pay U.S. Fine, Reorganize

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (AP)—Directors of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers—ASCAP—today agreed to a consent decree providing for payment of $24,000 in fines, thus ending the federal government's anti-trust action against the organization.

It was learned the government had agreed to dismiss the criminal action now pending in federal court at Milwaukee, Wis., and to substitute a superseding civil action here.

To this, under the plan, ASCAP would plead nolo contendere, and the consent decree would be entered.

Principal terms of the proposed consent decree were reported thus:

ASCAP to pay a $5000 fine and 19 directors individual fines of $1000.

Exclusive agency provisions of ASCAP to be modified to permit a member to license any of his works to any individual or company; ASCAP also to retain licensing power.

No member however, to license his works to Broadcast Music, Inc., opposing organization set up by broadcasters at the beginning of this year.

All money received by the individual member licensing his work to be paid to ASCAP, to go into its general fund an dbe dispersed under rules of the society.

ASCAP's "self-perpetuating" board to be replaced by directors elected by the general membership, as the term of each of the present board members expires.

Membership qualifications to be lowered so that any individual having one song, regularly published, might belong. Existing rules call for a minimum of five songs.

Wing of Plane Found Off Cape

WEST YARMOUTH, Feb. 19 — Probable evidence of some past tragedy, a 15-foot section of an airplane wing was recovered from the sea off Great Island today.

The wing was badly corroded by the salt water and had apparently been immersed for some time, authorities said.

Frank Lindgren, of South Sea ave., made the discovery and notified state police. A trooper and two men put out in a boat and hauled the relic to shore.

The wing is believed to be of a Fairchild plane, 1917 model. The news of the find was broadcast to all police bureaus in the hope it might explain some unsolved disappearance.

Mrs. Jennie Shillman Last Rites Held

Funeral services for Mrs. Jennie Shillman, 49, of Castlegate rd., Roxbury, a resident of that district for 38 years, were held today at Levine's funeral home, 394 Washington st., Dorchester. She died at Phillips House after a brief illness

Besides her husband, Barney Shillman, she leaves three children, and three brothers, Hyman Brickle of Woonsocket, R. I., Samuel Brickle of Stoughton, and Charles Brickle of the Boston Evening American circulation department.

Housewives Flock To Wares Exhibit

Housewives—and their hubbies, too—today thronged the Parker House for the eighth annual housewares show, which will continue through Saturday.

The show, biggest of its kind ever held in Boston, has more than 300 exhibits with everything from steak knives to deluxe bath fixtures.

U. S. FLOOD OF INSULTS SENT HITLER

"Don't write. Telegraph and let's get acquainted. Well, just write to us, care of the German short wave station, Berlin, Broadcasting House. That will get us.

"Or if you think that is too impersonal, write it to your announcer, Jimmy, or the Big, Bad Wolf, or me—I am Jackie Goodsell."

Well, today Jackie's name was probably Mud to the Big Boy and the other Nazis, for these are some of the messages that went winging across the sea to the Third Reich:

A request for an authentic broadcast of Hitler's funeral—and soon.

COSTLY—IF NAZIS PAY

An explanation by short wave as to why Hermann Goering remains fat and multi-uniformed, with medals riding his well-stuffed paunch, while German folk generally are close-rationed.

A bomb-by-bomb account of RAF assaults on Hitler's office in the Berlin chancellery and his castle at Berchtesgaden.

It took no long figuring to learn that 100 messages, collect, at the $2.19 minimum, would cost the Nazis $219, that 10,000 would run into $21,900, that 100,000 would come to $219,000 and that an even million messages would deduct $2,190,000 from the Reich's funds—or the price of nearly 55 Messerschmitts.

Of course some serious messages are going to Germany—but also collect.

WHAT PRICE PEACE?

Prof. Ralph Berry Barton of Harvard sent this one:

"A specific and authoritative statement of the terms on which Germany will cease military operations."

From Prof. Donald C. MacKay, also of Harvard:

"What adequate guarantees would Germany give that food for Belgium would not be taken out as rapidly as it arrived?"

Some, but not too many, messages died in the RCA offices because hastily impressed censors considered them a bit too obscene. The great bulk of the message flood, however, was in a kidding vein, although there were many in which a trace of bitterness could be read.

'TAKE ALL OR NONE'

Indications that today the Nazis were beginning to wince under the stings of the innocently-asked suggestions came when Berlin requested of RCA that it send only favorable messages and withhold those evidently "not in good faith."

But RCA, calling them as it saw them, turned the German Telegraph Administration down bluntly.

"Take all or none," replied RCA specifically.

It will be interesting to hear Berlin on short wave tonight. But meanwhile, before the Nazis cancel their invitation, you can still take a verbal sock at Hitler and have him pay. Be sure and mark it "collect."

Dolan Dancers At Cape Camp

Entering upon the same entertainment road that their mentor traveled in the last war, the Gertrude Dolan Dancing Co-Eds will entertain the soldiers tonight at Camp Edwards, Falmouth.

Several in this line of girls who have been appearing throughout New England and New York state have boy friends stationed at Edwards, so they have doubly welcomed the opportunity to give their show.

In the World War, Miss Dolan herself, then a young vaudevillian of Roxbury, entertained soldiers and sailors in the Liberty theaters at camps and contonments all over the nation.

The RECORD-AMERICAN is the DOMINANT

1ST

Every week-day in Boston, eight daily newspapers—four morning papers — four evening papers—are placed side-by-side upon the newsstands.

Neither the operator of the "stand"—nor the newsboy on the corner—urge you to buy any particular paper . . . give away no prizes nor premiums.

John Q. Public pays his pennies, takes his choice. In other words, selection of one paper over another is simply an expression of preference.

The Record-American is FIRST in Boston's daily newspaper field, (standard-size papers included), in every classification of circulation — total, city, city and suburban. This is not merely a claim. It is a statement of fact substantiated by the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

Real Rhumba Right Raucous

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
Distributed by International News Service

If Mrs. Roosevelt claims that rhumba isn't enough exercise I say she couldn't have been doing the eight-day, self-winding, paid-up and non-assessible Cuban rhumba with the all-Havana filler.

I want to inform Eleanor that the authentic, sod-busting, spasmodic and continuous rhumba is more exercising than tearing down a jail from the inside.

Down in Havana I whirled for five hours like an egg-beater in an omelet factory.

It's a combination of centrifugal force, capillary attraction and a cat-fit set to music.

I lost eleven pounds and my steamboat ticket. A little senorita kicked me around a sixty-acre dance floor with no neutral corners, twirled me like three plums on a slot machine and kept me stepping out like a sore-footed penguin in a river of running lava.

Finally, I saw the day-break shining through yellow blinds and I dove head first through the window to escape. But what I thought was the sunrise was an electric light in a bass drum.

The genuine Cuban rhumba is more exercise than chinning yourself on a moon-beam. I went flying through the air like orders in the Army. Fighting a grizzly hand to hand is like sitting out a rhumba.

It's a street riot indoors. And if Mrs. Roosevelt ever gets to Havana, which she certainly will if she hasn't, I will give her the address of a rhumba palace that is as low-down as busted arches and hotter than a Boy Scout's flashlight.

I want to go on record as saying the rhumba is exercise if I can do so without stirring up the Youth Congress.

By JACK CONWAY

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 19—There were definite signs of the approach of the training season for major league ball clubs with a dozen workmen busily engaged getting Waterfront Park in condition for the Yanks and the Cardinals, and an occasional ball player with his family checking in at one of the local hotels.

By the early part of next week the practice sessions will be underway. The Yanks will be out to eliminate their mistakes of last season, while the Cardinals will be determined to continue the sensational climb they started once Bill Southworth of the old Gas House Gang was placed in charge of the team.

Talk to any of the natives, and they are at a loss to explain how the Tigers were able to defeat Joe McCarthy's Yanks. They refuse to concede that maybe Del Baker had the better club.

"The Yanks just thought they couldn't lose and so let down to a point where an ordinary club like Detroit could win," said one of the local baseball orators. "Now that the Yanks have received a good spanking they will play more seriously and win the American League pennant this year again."

The local Yankee rooters overlook the fact Detroit, with Buck Newsom leading the parade, had better pitching than McCarthy's club. The Yanks' veteran hurlers showed signs of cracking up last season, and the young flingers had not progressed far enough in big league form to take over the burden.

"We will be a better ball club this year than we were in 1940," George Selkirk told me. "We have not any alibis for our failure to win the pennant last season. The Tigers stood up in the closing stretches of the season when the Indians faded, and we failed to carry through with our winning surge."

The advance guard of the Yanks refuses to get excited over the fact Joe DiMaggio has not signed yet. It is believed Joe will be here for the training session, and that he will soon make peace with Ed Barrow.

Babe Ruth always had his early contractual difficulties with the Yanks, but after he had batted a few home runs over the outfield wall at Waterfront Park he affixed his signature on the dotted line.

Mickey Cochrane is being blamed in some quarters for DiMaggio failing to sign. Cochrane has been on the Coast, and has made several statements to the effect Joe is worth $40,000 a year. This kind of talk is not expected to cause the Yanks' slugger to hasten to sign a contract calling for a smaller salary figure.

Ruth Once Got $80,000 a Year

BABE RUTH GOT $80,000 a season when at the peak of his baseball glory with the Yanks. Those kind of salaries are over as far as big league baseball is concerned.

Now that the Yanks are being operated by the estate of the late Col. Ruppert there will be a great deal of conversation before any large raises are handed out. It was a different story when Col. Ruppert had the final say on all baseball disputes.

Barrow and McCarthy are now obliged to explain everything to a board of directors that has banking and legal connections. These gentlemen are often more interested in balancing the budget and making money if possible than an individual owner is.

I doubt whether any board of bankers would have been as lavish as Col. Ruppert was in spending money.

It is a cinch such a board would never have approved the liberal manner in which Tom Yawkey spent his money with the Red Sox. In the cases of Ruppert and Yawkey they possessed personal pride in

MICHIGAN BOXING HEAD BLASTS HEAVY SETUPS

By RUSSELL FULLER

DETROIT, Feb. 19 (INS)—Close on the heels of a demand for an investigation into the Joe Louis-Gus Dorazio heavyweight fight in Philadelphia, John J. Hettche, Michigan boxing commissioner, declared today he has not sanctioned a Louis-Abe Simon bout in Detroit on March 21 as reported and believed.

Hettche said there was absolutely no connection between his statement and the demand in the Pennsylvania legislature for a probe into the Louis Dorazio encounter, won by Louis by a knockout in the second round.

WANTS THINGS ON UP AND UP

It had been generally assumed in Detroit and elsewhere, however, that the Louis-Simon fight was already set for March 21. Hettche refused to say whether he would sanction the fight if it was "formally offered" to Detroit.

Hettche made it distinctly clear there would be no "big time" fights in Detroit unless he was certain everything was on the up and up.

"I don't need this job as boxing commissioner," he explained. "And before this city has any so-called championship fights they have to look all right to me."

Hettche is a millionaire automobile dealer.

PRAISES OTHER BOUT

The Michigan commissioner said he was highly enthusiastic about the Nathan Mann-Gus Lesnevich fight which is slated for Detroit Olympia on Feb. 27.

"There should be more matches like this," he said, "to determine a true challenger for Louis. A series of real elimination matches would do boxing more good than the way things are going."

At the same time, Hettche said he has completed an investigation into the "Big Bill" Thompson-Simon fight in Maryland several weeks ago and which the former won.

"My investigation," Hettche stated, "disclosed that the whole thing was rotten throughout."

JACOBS OFFERS BOUT

Hettche has refused to sanction a Thompson-Simon rematch in Detroit.

Hettche disclosed that Mike Jacobs, the New York boxing promoter called him and offered another heavyweight fight to Detroit, exclusive of the proposed Louis-Simon go.

"I can't say what fighters Jacobs offered me," Hettche said, "but I am considering the matter carefully."

Hettche was asked if Louis would fight soon in Detroit, his home city.

"All I can say is that Louis will fight here in the fall, perhaps sooner," was the reply.

This led to the assumption that perhaps the Louis-Simon go may not develop, especially in view of

Medford Angler Wins $1000 Prize For 927-Pound Tuna

Dr. John B. Vernaglia of Medford, was awarded the $1000 grand prize in the George Ruppert 1940 Atlantic Coast Salt Water Fishing Contest.

Dr. Vernaglia caught a 927-pound tuna in Ipswich Bay last summer.

Ruppert announced, meanwhile, that Charles Stedry, whose address was listed as Freeport, L. I., won the "fluke class" prize of $100 for catching a 16-pound doormat. Stedry, however, could not be found.

Landis Backs Vitt In Bonus Demand

CHICAGO, Feb. 19 (AP)—The salary claim of Oscar Vitt against the Cleveland baseball club, which dismissed him after the 1940 season, has been approved by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, it was announced today by that official's secretary, Leslie O'Connor.

Vitt, now manager of the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League, was paid $15,000 for the 1940 season, marked by a player rebellion against him and climaxed by his being replaced in late October by Roger Peckinpaugh.

Vitt immediately brought claim against Cleveland for a sum he contended due him under a bonus clause. It was believed to have been about $3000.

In another decision, Commissioner Landis granted free agency to Catcher James M. Holbrook, who was involved in a dispute with the Albany N. Y. club of the Eastern League. Action which had placed Holbrook on the ineligible list was set aside and the player awarded salary of $300 monthly from Albany from June 21, 1940, to Sept 3, 1940.

Holbrook's contract was purchased by Albany in December of 1939 from Federalsburg which team Holbrook managed in the Eastern Shore League.

Albany tendered him a contract of $275 per month, which was less than his 1939 salary with Federalsburg, Landis said.

This started the controversy on which the commissioner's decision said that Albany had "completely ignored Holbrook's request that he be employed, transferred or released."

M'GOWAN'S RING CRAFT RECALLS MIKE GLOVER

By HERB FINNEGAN

Lester McGowan was boxing Orlando Fanti at the recent tri-city bouts at the Garden.

Mike Conroy and Tam Sheehan, a couple of old-timers from dear old Southern Boston, were at the ringside admiring the clever youngster from Buffalo.

"Beautiful left," says Tam. "Smart, too. See how he mixes his pitches up. First to head, then to body. Most amateurs forget an opponent has a body. They're all head-punchers. Not this kid, though. Cool customer, isn't he?"

Mike Conroy had his chin on the ring apron.

"Going to be a tall kid when he gets his growth," muses Mike. "Know who he's going to be like? Mike Glover. Yes siree. Old Mike himself.

"Great defensive fighter, this kid. Wish Fanti would lead for a change. Get a fighter who could come in to McGowan and he'd knock his block off. But Fanti's too cute."

"See how he feints with his body," counters Tam. "Picks his spots well, too. Rolls like Glover, doesn't he?"

MIKE DEFENSIVE ACE

Mike Glover, be it known, is the all-time pride of Southern Boston. Jim Maloney, Hambone Kelley and the rest of that famous cast must all take a p'ace beneath the late Mike in Southie's boxing hall of fame.

Glover was a light welterweight, weighing about 140 pounds. He fought in the pre-war days, when boxing science was in its golden age.

Jack Johnson, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien and Packy McFarland, all boxing masters, used to say that Mike Glover was the best defensive fighter that ever lived. That means the best defensive fighter of all time, because today's boxers are not as talented as those of yesteryear, say what you will.

So when veterans like Mike Conroy and Tam Sheehan dare to place young McGowan in the same niche with their home town idol, Glover, there is no praise higher.

McGowan is imperturbable. When Fanti was pouring it on, as he did at times, the kid just stood in his tracks, picked off punches right and left and countered viciously.

"He's the most unemotional fighter I ever met," Lou Wertheimer was saying in his dressing room after the fight. "Nothing bothers him.

"Funney got reams of publicity for taking his famous nap before his first title fight with Dempsey in Philadelphia. McGowan does that every time he's fighting.

SLEEPS BEFORE FIGHT

"Monday afternoon, for example, we ate at five o'clock. At six we went for a walk, and returned to the hotel at 6:45. I told him to lie down and rest before the bout. I left the room.

"I returned at nine to call him and found I had forgotten my key. I rapped and rapped on the door but couldn't wake him. Finally I was making so much noise that the fellow in the next room came out to see what was the matter.

"I told him my plight and he let me use his phone. The operator called Les, and called him, and it took five minutes of phone ringing on top of all the door banging before the kid got up and opened the door. He had slept soundly through it all.

"Yes, sir, he's an ideal subject. Never asks who he's fighting, how much he weighs or anything else.

"In fact the only time I ever saw him betray any sign of emotion was on his first appearance on the radio back home in Buffalo," Wertheimer laughed. "He really was scared then."

SHARKEY'S VERSION

Some of the ringsiders claimed McGowan never would be much of a puncher, but listen to Jack Sharkey:

"I met him at the gym," Sharkey was recalling, "and when I shook hands with him I was surprised by the strength of his grip and the length of his fingers.

"That's the type of hand a good puncher needs. Curl those long fingers up inside a pair of leather mittens, and you've got plenty of hitting space.

"Look at the short fingers I have (business of closing fist). Just give that kid time enough to develop, and he'll be able to punch all right."

Master McGowan is developing right smartly, thanks to expert handling by that former intercollegiate boxing champion Lou Wertheimer.

Perhaps the next time he boxes in Boston (next month) he'll be able to show a more devastating punch.

At least he'll show to better advantage because the Irish-American A. A. won't him in with a counter puncher like Mr. Fanti.

Ice-Capades Opens Tonight

FROM BRITAIN—Rosemarie Stewart and Robert Bench, English precision skating pair, featured in "Ice-Capades of 1941." This skating extravaganza returns to Garden tonight for four-day run.

Holds Two Shows On Holiday

By SAM BROGNA

New England's third and last ice show of the season will start its first of four nights' showing tonight at the Garden with the presentation of the second appearance in three months of "Ice Capades of 1941."

The new ice carnival, which made its debut here in Boston last December, comes to a close with a double performance on Washington's Birthday to make a total of five showings during this current stay.

When this newest of ice extravaganzas was shown to the public hereabouts in December, it made such a decided hit that the sponsors of the show decided to bring back the same outfit, act for act.

ALL MEMBERS STARS

Tonight's, as well as the remaining week's showings, will include the same company of 75, including the skating chorus known as "Ice Rockettes," with a cast of 36 and a carload of brilliant costumes valued at $30,000.

Also in the array of ice blade artists are a number of beauties, some of whom made their first appearance in these parts last December and others who have already made a hit here in the past.

Although Bebta, the slim English Miss, and Lois Dworshak, the Duluth, Minn., "Rhythm Girl" are advertised as the headliners of the show, this is one refrigerated carnival that fails to highly boast of a leading performer.

Practically each and every member of the cast who has an individual part, is as equal as the other as shown on the first visit to the Hub. Applause was fairly well divided among the skating queens and male artists during that show, but the comedians more or less stole most of the limelight.

The starry-eyed Bebta, whose split and Salchow jumps, toe loops and whizzing Arabesque, never cease to enchant, opens the program as the Sultan's favorite. Harem girls, slaves and attendants skate-dance to Oriental Moonrise throughout the act. Counting this number, the English star makes three other appearances.

FIVE TIMES CHAMP

The only other performer to make four separate appearances on the ice, is Lois Dworshak. Vera Hruba, the creamy-complexioned Czech, comes in for her share of glory with three.

Robin Lee, five times American amateur champion, reappears in his Robin Hood costume of russet and green; Marion "Red" McCarthy, Canadian speed skater who does a ballet turn as a Chinese god and Serge Flash, world's famous juggler, lead the male individual performers.

For comedy, there is Al Surette, Boston's own who does backbends and rocking chair spread eagles; Eric Waite, the motion picture skating comedian who made a decided hit as "Campus Queen," Joe Jackson, Jr., bicycle rider whose cycling clowning is something to write home about; the team of Larry Jackson and Ernie Lynam and Everett McGowan and Ruth Mack with their comical but expertly performed Apache number.

'Polar Bear' Meet in New York Today

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (AP)—Some leading candidates for individual honors in next week's Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. Indoor Track Championships will be on display today in the appropriately named "Polar Bear" meet. This is a triangular affair among Columbia, Princeton and Pennsylvania, run on Columbia's outdoor board track.

Among last year's winners, who are favorites to repeat and who are expected to do well in the Intercollegiates March 1, are Sprinter Bob Jackson, Hurdler Thacher Longstreth and Middle Distance Runner Ed Burrowes of Princeton, and John Drebinger in the mile and Ed Beetem in the weight events for Penn.

Burrowes won the 600 yards and finished in a dead heat with his teammate, L. Tilson, in the 1000 last year, but he's entered in only the latter event today.

ROXBURY SPORTS NIGHT

The Brotherhood Adath Jeshurun of Roxbury will hold its annual Sports Nite Wednesday, Feb. 26, at Brunswick Hall, Brunswick st., Roxbury. Joseph J. Marshall is the chairman in charge of the arrangements.

LEO ADMITS CAREER ENDED BY PEE WEE

HAVANA, Feb. 19 (AP) After only three days of training in this tropical hotspot, the Brooklyn Dodgers already are so far along in their conditioning that Manager Leo Durocher is cautioning his athletes to take it easy.

"I'm having trouble getting it through their heads that this is a new kind of climate," complained Leo, his blistered nose glinting in the noonday sun. "They're about to wear themselves out in the first week. We're further along right now than we were after three weeks in Clearwater last winter."

CARRYING BIG SQUAD

It is extremely important to the Dodger boss that he flag his boys down and make them respect the Cuban sun, for they have a record breaking schedule of nearly forty exhibition games staring them in the face. Durocher, however, snorts at the suggestion that his battlers might leave their fight in the dressing room.

"Nuts," he said. "We're playing a lot of games, sure. But we're carrying a lot of players too, and by the time the season opens none of them will have seen any more action than he has in previous springs. I'll spread them thin after we get out toward Texas, maybe three or four innings a game, and I'll guarantee you we'll be ready on opening day."

LAUDS REESE

As for Leo, himself, he says he's practically through as a playing manager, the great little shortstop is beginning to show a spring of white at each temple, and he says Pee Wee Reese will play every game this season except when he's sick or perhaps the second half of some doubleheaders.

"Why should I get out there when I've got a great player like Reese to take my place?" Leo asked. "Maybe I was as good or better than Pee Wee a few years ago, but not any more. That kid's really wonderful. He's going to be the best shortstop you ever saw—mark my words.

"With him in there every day and Joe Medwick due to have a big season and Kirby Higbe added to our pitching staff, we're bound to be stronger than we were last year.

"REDS TO BEAT

"Not only that, but just look at Paul Waner bounding around out there. I'll admit I had more or less planned on Harold Reiser playing righ field, because he can give that ball an awful ride and would make a good third-place hitter. But Waner is determined that he's going to play it, and if he can beat Reiser out, it's sure all right with me.

"There's not much use of my making a prediction. Everybody knows we've got to beat Cincinnati, and naturally I think we have a good chance.

"Cookie Lavagetto is going to be a lot better third baseman since he had his appendix out. He's 15 pounds heavier and says he doesn't get tired any more.

"Luke Hamlin is training harder than ever before in his life. What if he and Curt Davis and Whit Wyatt and Freddie Fitzsimmons should all come through with big years? Boy, what a pitching staff that would be."

Willie Hoppe Receives $3550 For 17-Day Defense of Title

CHICAGO, Feb. 19 (AP)—Willie Hoppe, 53-year-old king of three-cushion billiards, received $3550 for his 17-day battle to retain the world's championship.

Hoppe was recovering from pneumonia when the tourney started, but won 16 of 17 matches after making a belated start in the 18-player field. The month-long tournament which ended last Friday attracted a net "gate" of $21,075.

Jake Schaefer of Cleveland, runner-up to Hoppe for the second straight year, was paid $2500, and Jay Bozeman, Vallejo, Cal., received $1825 for third place.

Welker Cochran of San Francisco got $1700 for fourth, followed by Art Rubin, New York, $1500; Joe Chamaco, Mexico City, $1375; Art Thurnblad, Kenosha, Wis., $1150; Allen Hall, Chicago, $1050; John Fitzpatrick, Los Angeles, $950; Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia, $825; Paul Lewin, Chicago, $725; Tiff Denton, Kansas City, $625; Earle Looka baugh, Chicago; Irving Crane, Livonia, N. Y., Clarence Jackson, Detroit; Joe Moriarty, Chicago; Len Kenney, Chicago, and Herb Peterson, St. Louis, $550 each.

the rumpus which arose after the Philadelphia match Monday night.

Blame Fans for Louis Bum-a-Month Campaign

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (INS)—Despite some heat suddenly being generated against Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis' so-called bum-a-month campaign, he will go through with his schedule calling for three more fights through June and another in September unless he runs out of opponents.

Joe tnd his handlers are utterly unconcerned over the threatened boxing investigation following his knockout over Gus Dorazio at Philadelphia Monday night.

Their attitude is that Dorazio was stiffened by one of the three or four hardest punches ever laid on an opponent by the hardest hitter of these times. It is true that Lewis failed to decapitate Dorazio, but he came reasonably close to it at that, and he and his handlers figure they did their part.

SIMON NEXT VICTIM

Barring unforeseen developments, Louis will go ahead against Abe Simon next month and then tackle somebody or anybody in April, following which will come his engagement with Conn in June and his September encounter with the winner of a Lou Nova-Max Baer fight.

Whether Louis is justified in meeting 10-to-1 shots was a matter still being debated all up and down the local cauliflower row today.

You can take your choice between these viewpoints:

1—The spectators pay to see Louis in action and do so knowing that the fight is likely to end in a quick knockout, with the result that nobody is deceived and everybody should figure he gets his money's worth on that basis.

2—There is no excuse for a champion to meet set-ups.

Taking the Philadelphia show for the sake of argument, we would like to point out this: The spectators were duly warned of what was likely to happen and, moreover, saw a good preliminary card and a round-and-a-half of Louis action for a top price of $5.75. We don't see how anybody could be very badly cheated on that arrangement.

As for the knockout, and the foolish charges that Dorazio went into the tank, we would like to express the opinion that Dorazio never in his life will be hit as hard again unless he meets Louis in an encore. We saw the punch from the first row of the working press section, down jam against the ring, scarcely more than mere inches from Dorazio's corner. We not only saw it, but heard it.

FIGHT HONEST

As far as we are concerned, it was an honest fight insofar as any fight between two so badly mismatched men can be.

The puzzle of it all is how they ever lured $57,000 worth of people into the arena, people who knew the chances were all against their seeing a real heavyweight championship battle.

But they will turn out again and again just as they always have, even going back to the million-dollar crowd that watched Dempsey massacre Carpentier, who was so inferior to the then champion that they made him train in secret to keep people from seeing him.

The answer to it all must be that the fight business just doesn't make any sense and won't as long as the fans like it.

Olympics Eye Third Place In Series With Sea Gulls

With third place as their next goal, the fast-stepping Olympics, who are at the peak of their stride, have a grand opportunity of gaining it when they face the Atlantic City Sea Gulls this Friday and Saturday nights at the Arena.

The rough-riding Gulls boast a four-game edge on Hago Harrington's club, but they have three games in hand. Two victories for the Boston outfit over the coming weekend would cut that advantage in half, and place the Bostonians within easy reach of the show spot.

The local entry is the hottest team in the circuit right now. They saw their eight-game undefeated streak snapped at River Vale last Saturday night on a weird decision but bounced right back at Baltimore on Sunday.

FLUKE ENDS STREAK

The Maryland triumph marked the first time in 21 games that the Orioles have tasted defeat on their own ice.

Gerry Desrosiers, Frankie Spain and Al Baronowski missed the Baltimore tilt. Spain and Desrosiers were forced to the side-boards na cause of injury, while Big Al had to report back in Boston for work. All three will be available on Friday and Saturday.

In fact Harrington will be able to ice his most formidable sextet of the season.

GREEN WAVE CLICKING

The famed Green Wave is moving with all of its old speed. Junie Stubbs and Jack Costello have both hit the scoring jackpot over the past two-week period, and their sudden spurt has turned the second line into a dangerous scoring trio.

Harpo Walsh's presence on the third line at center should improve the efficiency of both wingers, Ed Barry and Johnnie Fitzgerald.

NOVA STARTS WORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (INS)—Lou Nova today made preparations to open a training camp at Lake Wallenpaupack, Pa., this week-end for his 15-round heavyweight fight with Max Baer April 4 at Madison Square Garden.

Everett Slugger Enters Tryouts For N. E. Title

Harry Medugno of Everett, stocky little lightweight slugger who made a grand showing in the tri-city bouts at the Garden Monday, has entered the first round N. E. championship tryouts which will be held Monday night at the Arena under Irish-American A. A. auspices.

Medugno has been fighting only six months but has made commendable progress. He met the clever Jerry Flemia of Cleveland in his semi-final at the Garden Monday, and gave the tri-city champ a rousing time of it.

He stung Flemia so hard in the second frame that it looked as if the Cleveland boy would call it a night, but made the mistake of boxing the rest of the way and lost the nod.

Had he forgot to box and just waded in and slugged, Medugno would have walked off with the verdict, ringsiders insisted. That would have been a notable achievement because Flemia is the boy who kayoed Ken Conley in the final

But that can be attributed to inexperience.

Whirlaway Fails In Tuneup Race

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 19 (AP)—Disappointing in a tuneup race, Warren Wright's Whirlaway may be kept out of the $20,000 added Flamingo Stakes for 3-year-olds at Hialeah Park Saturday.

Winter book favorite for the Kentucky Derby, the horse is being pointed for that event to the exclusion of all others.

He finished third in a five-horse field yesterday, trailing Agricole and Cadmium, both owned by Theodore Mueller's Shady Brook Farm.

Trainer Ben Jones said the big thoroughbred cooled off satisfactorily.

"The only way I might be able to account for it was that maybe he was too close up during the early running, or maybe he just couldn't spot those horses that much weight (The colt carried 122 pounds to 110 each for Cadmium and Agricole.)

"I can't say anything yet about the Flamingo next Saturday. Mr. Wright will want to consider well the next steps to be taken with Whirlaway. He may want to rest up the colt for a few weeks."

Ex-Fighter, 4 Born Abroad in Draft

A former New England lightweight champ and four men born under foreign flags will be among selectees from a Dorchester draft board who will report for induction into the Army, tomorrow.

They are Victor Gemelli, 35, who fought in the ring by the name of Joe Connolly and won the crown in 1936; James Cahill, of Dorchester ave., James Nally of Dorchester ave., both born in Ireland; Samuel Stockman, Olney st., born in Poland, and Angel Rizzo, Ch ries st., born in Italy.

Prize Winning Angler Sought By Committee

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (INS) — I'aging Charles Stedry, please!

I seemed today he could not be found, although there is a $100 check waiting for him because he won the "fluke class" prize in the 1940 George Ruppert fishing contest.

Stedry, whose address was listed as Freeport, N. Y., won the money for hauling in a 16-pound doormat at Oak Beach, N. Y.

Lr. John B. Vernaglia of Medford, Mass., received a $1000 grand prize in the contest, Dr. Vernaglia caught a 927-pound tuna in Ipswich bay last summer.

Lombardi Insists $18,000 Is Price For Signature

OAKLAND, Cal., Feb. 19 (INS)—The holdout battle between Ernie Lombardi and the Cincinnati Reds has developed into a state of siege with the big catcher still adamant on refusing to yield to current terms.

The big No. 1 catcher of the Reds today indicated to friends in Oakland he will not leave for the Cincinnati training camp at Tampa, Fla., until his wage difficulties are straightened out. The camp opens Feb. 23.

A veteran of 10 years in the big leagues and with a batting average of .315, Lombardi is reported asking for more than $18,000.

Larry Pacino Fans To Honor Boxer

Roxbury's Larry Pacino, N. E. middleweight amateur champion, will be feted at the Casa Manana, Tuesday evening.

Larry, in the recent Hearst All-American boxing show at the Boston Garden, battled his way into the finals. Many sport and social celebrities will be present.

Red Sox Wrecked If Doerr Holds Out

By HERB FINNEGAN

THE RED SOX are breaking away for Sarasota on Saturday, and still no word from those eminent Californians, Teddy Williams and Bobby Doerr.

Everybody expects to see the firebrand Williams kick up a little; nobody ever anticipates any trouble for Doerr.

An estimable young gentleman and as fine a character as one could find in the national pastime, the gifted young second sacker is just taken for granted, like the wave in your hair or the lovelight in your eye.

But suppose the young man did get serious and refuse to sign.

Suppose he's tired of directing traffic between those two tired old men, Joe Cronin and Jimmy Foxx, and decides to stay forever in his Illahe, Oregon, wildlands.

Did anybody ever give a thought to a Doerr-less Red Sox?—Cronin fumbling around at short and Foxx clinging to first base like a sailor on a raft.

How would that infield ever have stayed together the past two years if it hadn't been for the fleet-footed youngster whose play Charlie Gehringer, the Old Master, so greatly admires?

The writer who first called second base the keystone sack knew what he was talking about, because Doerr certainly has been the keystone of the Sox infield the past two seasons.

BOBBY DOERR STARTS PEG TO FIRST BASE

WHO'D TAKE his place?

On the Sox roster are three infield spares—Tommy Carey, Odell Hale and Lamar Newsome.

Carey couldn't make the grade with the Browns a few years back, and he's 32 now.

Newsome couldn't make the grade with the eighth place A's two or three years back, and he's 30 now.

Hale, who can't throw, couldn't make the grade with Cleveland, and he's 32, too.

Carey hit .323 in 43 games last season but if he played a few more he would have been back to his normal .260. He hit no home runs.

Newsome hit a banjo .277 with Baltimore. He got three home runs with a left field fence like that in old Walpole st.

Hale got into only 48 games last year and batted .220. He, like Carey, got no home runs.

Nothing much to look for from that bunch of All-Americas.

Doerr, on the other hand, hit a bang-up .291, drove out 22 home runs and batted in 105. He was exceeded in home runs by only Williams (23), Cronin (24) and Foxx (36). He was exceeded in runs batted in by only Cronin (111), Williams (113) and Foxx (119).

Thus he is one of the four ranking sluggers on the club, and by far the most accomplished fielder of the lot.

Yes, of all the under-rated ball players we ever did see, Doerr is Exhibit No. 1.

HERE'S A KID only 22 who's been a regular on the Sox for four years and with them five.

Dominic Di Maggio gets a special plaque for being the outstanding rookie of the year. He deserves it all right, but the point is that Doerr is two months younger than Dom and was an established major league star before Dom ever reached the big top.

And nobody ever thought of giving Doerr a plaque, or a "Day," or even a cheer.

Everybody would think it a remarkable feat if Ulysses Lupien dislodged Jimmy Foxx at first base this year; yet Lupe, still to make the grade in the majors, is a whole year older than Doerr.

It would be miraculous indeed if Stanley Spence ever crashed the Sox outfield, yet Mr. Spence was born on Jan. 15, 1915, which makes him three years older than the Illahe woodsman.

Of all the players on the Sox roster, only rookie pitcher Norman Brown, pitcher Earl Johnson and the aforementioned Williams are younger than Doerr,.

"If the Sox couldn't finish better than a fourth with me holding up Foxx and Cronin, where would they finish without me? This is the time to get it."

Mr. Eddie Collins, an old second sacker himself, has been chasing Theodore Samuel Williams around all winter trying to get him to sign on the dotted line. If I were he, I'd worry more about Robert Pershing Doerr, born April 7, 1918.

The Sox would be sunk without him.

Rutgers May Slate Fort Dix Eleven

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Feb. 19 (INS)—Negotiations for the first major football game between an Army camp and a college eleven since World War I neared a conclusion today with the prospect that Rutgers University and the Ft. Dix varsity will clash here next Oct. 18.

Army officials already have approved plans for the contest and George Little, Rutgers athletic director, said he expects the Scarlet's challenge soon will be accepted officially by the Army.

Bob Foxx to Quit College for Giants

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 19 (INS)—Bob Foxx, the University of Tennessee's gridiron stalwart, will report soon to the New York Giants' training camp, Manager Bill Terry said today.

Foxx, who is scheduled to be graduated in June and was drafted by the Chicago Cardinals National Professional Football League team, told Terry yesterday he would forego completion of his studies this spring to get his chance in baseball.

BREADON PRESCRIBES VITAMINS FOR CARDS

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 19 (AP)—After seven years without a championship, pennant fever has hit the Cardinals again. So President Sam Breadon, turned doctor, has prescribed vitamin B1 to revitalize his Red Birds into A1 flag contenders.

Breadon, whose organization pioneered the chain store system in baseball, has about 5000 capsules to administer to his players, starting with spring training. His batterymen will report at St. Petersburg, Fla., Monday.

According to medical authorities, B1 is anti-neurotic vitamin which has been effective in relieving nervousness, indigestion and lack of energy.

Asked if taking the vitamin tablets would be a must order on the Cardinals' training program, the St. Louis Club president said:

"Well, of course, we can't force the players to swallow the capsules, but naturally the club would like to have its men in line regularly for the B1 issue."

Cardinal executives themselves evidently already have B1 on their own menus, judging from the energy they have shown in signing athletes to 1941 contracts.

In eight days since receipt of the first signed contract, all but 12 of the 38 players on the roster have joined the fold.

Latest to sign were Pitchers Lon Warneke and Max Surkont, Infielders Steve Mesner and Outfielders Ernie Koy, Harry Walker and John Wyrostek, all of whom placed their signatures on the dotted line yesterday.

ELUSIVE DISC rolls behind Toronto cage as Milt Schmidt and Woody Dumart of the Bruins follow in swift pursuit. Goalie Turk Broda had just stepped out of his net to bat down a Dumart drive as this picture was snapped at Garden last night. The Bruins gained a 2-2 tie to preserve their undefeated string.

SMOTHERED—Goalie Turk Broda of Toronto leaped out of his net to rob Eddie Wiseman, No. 7, of the Bruins of a goal on this play. Bucko McDonald, No. 3, Maple Leafs, clears as Pete Langelle looks on. Wiseman was fed a nifty pass by Bill Cowley but Broda turned in one of his many remarkable saves.

16,209 SEE LEAFS, BRUINS DEADLOCK

Syl Apps Cuts Cowley's Lead to Seven Points

There has never been a greater demand for seats in any league game since the Bruins came to Boston 17 years ago than for last night's game against the Leafs . . . Tommy Waters, Garden ticket office manager, estimated that he could have sold 40,000 seats if room was available . . . the crowd was 16,209, which is all the building for any hockey game.

• • •

Penalties were few and far between . . . only four were called . . . Bob Davidson picked up one in the first period and Bill Cowley was thumbed off in the overtime . . . in the second period. Milt Schmidt and Wally Stanowski started mixing high sticks and Wally parted Milt with a gentle tap that drew blood and necessitated a pair of stitches . . . Schmidt drew a minor and Stanowski a major.

After the game Schmidt said that Stanowski's deed was a mere accident while off balance . . . Dit Clapper came close to being seriously injured in the overtime when Bobby Bauer's skate point pierced the B's captain near the temple but fortunately, it was not too deep and was quickly fixed.

Des Smith sidelined his headgear for the first time this year . . . Gus Marker and Jack Church were on with the Leafs but the injured members saw no action . . . Bill Cowley, N. H. L. leading scorer, who is only two assists short of Joe Primeau's all time record of 37 made in 1931-32, could not pick up a single point . . . Syl Apps who is second in scoring to Cowboy Bill belted home a pair of goals to bring his point total to 41, but he is still seven away from the Bruins leader . . . these two goals put Syl just one goal behind Sweeney Schriner, his teammate, who is the loop's leading goal getter with 20.

Among the celebrities at the Garden was Sterling Hayden, the former Gloucester fisherman and adventurer who is Paramount's latest movie find . . . Syl Apps, captain of Leafs presented Hayden with a hockey stick bearing the autographs of the Toronto squad . . . the Bruins not to be outdone made a similar presentation through Capt. Dit Clapper.

Manager Art Ross has decided to rest his tired and battered Bruins . . . they will report to the Garden tomorrow for a short meeting and will probably hold just one workout for the game with the Americans Sunday.

Last night's tie was more beneficial to the Leafs than the Bruins for Toronto has a game in hand which may mean quite a bit at the windup next month . . . if the Leafs beat out the Bruins they will have their choice as to the site of the first two playoff games which are all important.

After the game Dit Clapper remarked that the fray was much like a playoff affair with very close backchecking and with both clubs tending strictly to business . . . from a hockey standpoint, the first two periods of last night's game brought out the finest play of the year.

JACKSON'S TWO GOALS KEEP BRUINS' STREAK INTACT

Those amazing Bruins stretched their record breaking streak of unbeaten games to 22 with a 70 minute 2-2 deadlock against the pursuing Toronto Maple Leafs before a capacity turnout of 16,209 at the Garden last night, ease off today and tomorrow for a well deserved rest.

Pressed all the way by the threatening Leafs who are just a point away from an N. H. L. top tie with Les Bruins the invaders threw everything they had against the B's but were matched all the way in a fray that completely satisfied the largest gathering to see a game at the Garden this year.

Those Leafs came up with Syl Apps who teamed on one goal and soloed on the other to draw Brimsek out and sink a sweet back hand shot.

But the Bruins not to be outdone took the wraps off Little Art Jackson who slapped home a rebound to open the night's scoring and who duplicated the Apps solo to stalemate the duel.

These two standouts high lighted a game that saw both teams fairly fly for two periods. Everybody hit away at breakneck speed until the pace finaly told and there was a noticeable letdown late in the third period and both slowed down to a walk in the overtime.

The Bruins hit pay dirt first with the Reardon-Jackson-Cain line in operation. A power play with all five down the ice saw Des Smith and Terry Reardon team on a pass to Cain. Herbie let fly but Broda golfed it out right onto Art Jackson's stick and Art beat Broda before the Leafs goalie could recover at 11:37.

Syl Apps then went to work.

A Bruins foray into Leafs territory met with stiff opposition three minutes later and in a general scuffle, Nick Metz lifted a high pass that dropped near center ice. Apps beat the field to the plug, took it on high and was off. Flash Hollett made a desperate effort to catch him but it was in vain for the Leafs center was really flying.

He came in on Brimsek, crossed in front of the cage, forced Frankie to commit himself and then fired a backhand shot to even matters.

JACKSON DUPLICATES APPS

If that wasn't damage enough, Apps "bingoed" again early in the second period. Racing down the right lane he picked up a diagonal pass from Gordie Drillon that caromed off the boards, outguessed Bobby Bauer and beat Brimsek for his second goal.

Content with the slight margin, the Leafs eased up and tried to play defensive hockey but Art Jackson had other ideas.

Jackson came racing in on Bill Taylor who was trying to clear out from his own penalty line and wrested the puck away. Art then duplicated Apps' effort by swinging in alone, crossing the face of the citadel and then blasting a backhander home.

That ended the scoring for the night.

Both teams, starting to tire, refused to take unnecessary chances. Those attacks which did materialize were quickly quelled by either Brimsek or Broda. Both goalers incidentally, turned in bangup performances.

This is true of most successful promoters. When Tex Rickard operated the New York Garden, it made a great deal of money as Tex was willing to gamble on his major promotions.

Reviving the Old Gas House Spirit

UNDER BILLY SOUTHWORTH, the Cardinals are reviving the old Gas House spirit. They played exceptionally well during the last half of the 1940 season, and they finished in third place.

The Cards still feel the loss of Joe Medwick who was sold to the Brooklyn Dodgers for $100,000. Southworth, however, has hopes of getting another hard-hitting outfielder, and also improving his pitching strength.

The Cards believe that the Reds will once more be the club to beat this year.

Giants Get Going at Miami

THE GIANTS HAVE already started training at Miami. Secretary Eddie Brannick believes that an attractive spring schedule in the Magic City will net the club a considerable sum of money.

Gabby Hartnett, former manager of the Cubs, is in Miami as the "Right Eye" of Manager Bill Terry. Hartnett will act as a coach, but there is already talk that later on Gabby may be made manager of the club and Terry moved into the front office. It hasn't been a secret that Terry has desired to turn over the management of the club on the field to someone else while he took charge of the business operations.

Carl Hubbell, Mel Ott and other Giants veterans will be back in action once more, and with some promising looking youngsters in the lineup Terry is hopeful that his team will make a better showing during the coming season than it did in 1940.

Meanwhile Sarasota is waiting to welcome the Red Sox who have a good-looking club, and who could go places if they could get steady pitching.

'Ski Cross Country' Beginners Advised

By TAP GOODENOUGH

Skiers in this country have put too much emphasis on downhill running. Tows, trams, and lifts have sprung up like mushrooms during the past few years, with the result that all skiers who went up had to come down.

Too many beginners without any conception of control have commenced at the top of steep slopes or trails, some speeding down with such luck that it seemed the trees must have jumped aside for their cries of "Track."

Those who tried to go on both sides of a tree at once ended up with less luck.

A talk with Robert Billings, chairman of the USEASA Committee for cross-country and jumping instruction, reveals that the skiing public, both competitive and recreational, is finally becoming educated to the advantages of the cross-country phase of the sport. This type of skiing has increased rapidly this season.

We'll admit that rushing madly down a twisting trail ahead of the very wind is an incomparable thrill, but langlaufing or touring skiing can be made fun by well-planned trips.

The Gore Mt. Ski Club's treasure hunt is an excellent example of what can be done along those lines. Many other clubs, notably the A. M. C. and the Mt. Mansfield, have organized tempting trips for their members. These jaunts lasting from five hours to a whole day.

For the beginner, there is no better way to get accustomed to the feel of skiing than through cross country tours.

The decision of the general staff to equip and train a number of ski-mountaineer troops as part of our new army has been a great stimulus to cross country skiing.

The work of the National Ski Patrol and the Winter Defense Committee has encouraged the local patrols to cover many unskied areas in an attempt to train these local units as possible guides and scouts for the armed forces, should the need arise.

Cross country competition develops skill and stamina.

Prep schools, colleges, and clubs are now staging many such races . . . Warren Chivers, coach at Vermont Academy, is responsible for a large amount of the interest added to the sport.

There is plenty of rolling terrain in New England suitable for langlaufing . . . To mention a few sites, one may wind for miles through the scenic splendor of the Franconia Notch, N. H., area. The Monadnock, Laconia, and Newfound regions of the Granite State also offer all sorts of possibilities. Vermont abounds in trackless fields and slopes, while at Bridgton, Me., we have skied for miles over the snow-covered Highland lakes and surrounding territory.

For those skiers, then, who long for unbroken snow fields framed by trees and sky, away from the crowded tow slopes, here is their opportunity to enjoy exercise in the tempo of peace and solitude. Get your gang together, pack up some lunches, and go off for a day of "different" skiing in the outdoors that beckon. For fun and health, ski cross country.

CHILEAN CHATTER

Skiers! Here's your chance to help a skiing friend in need. Gulio Zegers, Chilean ski team member, who broke both legs in an accident on Cranmore Mountain, is convalescing at the Memorial Hospital, North Conway, N. H., while the rest of the team continue their tour. Cheer up this lonely lad by sending him cards, letters, clippings, pictures, or cartoons. He'll appreciate the true American spirit.

Incidentally, the Chilean group enjoyed their sojourn in Franconia, N. H., last week at Lovett's, where our flag and the banner of Chile flew side by side.

The team captain, Eugenio (Canuto) Errazuriz, can really dance the American way. We saw him stepping in fine form at the weekly Town Hall dance, ably aided by his companion and "Chaperone," John Jay, Jr., of ski films fame . . . The boys are now off for Lake Placid, N. Y.

SKI SCOOPS

Fred Noseworthy, who has been conducting his ski school at Plymouth, N. H., all season with grand success, won't be inducted into the Army probably until June. When his classes end in April, this expert hopes to take a trip to the West and race at the big meets at Sun Valley, Alta, Aspen and Mount Rainier. He will compete chiefly in slalom events . . . Another ski-draftee is Alec Behr of the Franconia Ski School, who is in the February contingent. Alec hopes to get into the ski troops and would prove invaluable to this division, which needs qualified instructors . . . The latest victim of Cupid-on-Skis is Dick Bradley of the Wildcats Ski Club. Dick is going to wed the club's secretary, Miss Sullivan, tomorrow, but not on skis. Good luck! . . . Henry Fling, formerly assistant to Oscar Cyr, skied Cannon Mountain Sunday last. He is now teaching at Exeter Academy.

Favor Harvard Over Tiger Five

Harvard's basketball team is favored to down Princeton in an Ivy League match tonight at the Harvard gym on the strength of having knocked Cornell virtually out of the running for the title.

Coach Wes Fesler revamped his lineup for the Cornell game and said that he would continue to use his same lineup against the Bengals.

Peabody, a chunky senior, will continue as the ranking center in place of Ed Rotschild and Bob James will handle one of the guard assignments with Chris Finegan instead of talkative Ed Buckley.

In the first clash between tonight's rivals, Princeton won a thrilling 36-32 overtime battle.

The basketball lineups:

Romano, f		f, Carmichael
Simpson, f		f, Winston
Peabody, c		c, Busse
James, g		g, Lloyd

GREEK CHAMP MAKES U. S. BOW TONIGHT

In the co-feature, Pantaleon Maniapig, champion of the Philippine Islands, takes on Joe Cox.

Macricostas is expected to become a sensation here, whether he wins or loses tonight. He is already claimed by his countrymen to be better than Jimmy Londos, and, according to experts in South America, where Macricostas has been wrestling in recent months, he knows plenty of holds.

He is built ideally for a wrestler—standing 5 feet 9 inches and weighing 218 pounds.

He has never been known to be disqualified for infractions of the rules, but it is said that he can take care of himself when the going gets stormy.

Numa should give the newcomer a thorough testing. Never a world's champion, but always a topnotch contender, Leo has experience on the Greek. And his go-behind toe-hold, which is his best offensive weapon, has beaten the best of them.

In the semi-final, Marvin Westenberg, former world's champion, meets Lord Albert Mills of England.
